IT'S TIME TO USE YOUR VOTE IN LOCAL ELECTIONS

VOTERS will be going to the polls today (Thursday, May 4) to elect local councillors for Bridgend county borough.

Two elections are taking place. The first is for borough councillors who will sit on Bridgend County Borough Council. This is a paid post, and the 54 councillors elected are entitled to an allowance of £13,300.

The borough council votes will be counted on the night, and the results will be released ward by ward, as the votes are counted. The first results could be announced quite soon, depending on the voter turnout.

The second election is for town and community councils. These are unpaid posts, but councillors standing will have to be patient.

The count team will go home to get some sleep, and they will return to count the town council votes at 2pm, Friday, May 5.

Town council results will, therefore, be available from around 3pm onwards.

GEM NOTE: The GEM would like to draw readers' attention to a correction we have included on page 2 (top right), arising from an article in last week's newspaper.

To summarise, all borough council seats in Porthcawl will be contested in the election.

Young chefs are 'cooking on gas' in competition!

RIGHT: All the competitors with judge John O'Sullivan and Vicki Bannister from WPD.

THIS week saw the Bridgend regional rounds of the Urdd eisteddfod's cookery competitions take place, with young hopefuls vying for a place in the finals at the Urdd national eisteddfod to be held in Pencoed, Bridgend between May 29 and June 3.

A spokesperson said: "Over recent years the popularity of the Urdd's cookery competitions, which are sponsored this year by electricity distributor Western Power Distribution (WPD), have gone from strength to strength with over 1,000 youngsters registering to compete in 2017.

"The finals will be held on the field in a cooking pavilion, overseen and judged by TV personality and Great British Bake Off runner-up Beca Lyne-Pirkis, who was a member and competitor at the Urdd eisteddfod."

The regional rounds for mid-Glamorgan were held on April 26 in Llanhari School, and as the "hosting" Urdd region, two finalists will be selected from each category to go forward to the national round in Pencoed.

Eluned Murray from Ysgol Gynradd Pont, and Sion Norton and Georgia Newman-Phillips from Ysgol Gynradd Coety were crowned winners, gaining praise from adjudicator John O'Sullivan. He said: "The standard was excellent, really good. We have some budding young stars here definitely. Masterchef lookout!"

The spokesperson continued: "The Urdd National Eisteddfod is reportedly Wales' premier youth festival, held in different locations each year.

"The Eisteddfod is a celebration of the Welsh language, culture and wealth of young talent we have in Wales today. More than 15,000 competitors and 90,000 visitors are expected to visit over the six days of the festival."

Porthcawl borough council elections

IN last week's GEM, it was stated that Norah Clarke had been re-elected unopposed in the election for the borough council seat of Nottage, Porthcawl.

This was incorrect and the error occurred during the editing process of the original press release, which correctly said that she had been elected unopposed for the town council seat.

To be clear, there is a contested election for the Nottage seat on the borough council.

Midwives on the march to motivate their colleagues

A total of 128 staff who work in the community and at Princess of Wales, Neath Port Talbot and Singleton hospitals signed up for a two-week 'pedometer challenge' to monitor how far they could walk. Divided into 20 teams across the different sites, they are now eagerly awaiting the results to find out which group has clocked up the most miles.

As soon as Princess of Wales midwife Karen Rees heard about the Royal College of Midwives' nationwide 'Caring for You' Pedometer Challenge, she knew her friends and colleagues would be up for a bit of healthy competition. "Whether they are sporting their RCM pedometers or using phones apps and fitness devices, everyone has been really enthusiastic", said Karen, who is collating the results from all the participants.

"It is going really well, it's good to see so many people wanting to get involved. Obviously, they are on their feet a lot during their working day but now they are putting in the steps when they are off duty too – we even had some staff who climbed Penyfa", she said.

Midwife Hayley Davies, of the Red Hot Chili Steppers team, has been recording her team's exploits on camera: "Everyone is very determined. Some people are taking it more seriously than others but there is never any shortage of volunteers to go to the pharmacy or to take bloods to the lab now – we are all looking for ways to get our steps up," she said.

Hayley and her teammates are among those who have been meeting up in their free time to fit in an extra bit of exercise.

"That has really helped bring us all closer, we're enjoying spending time together and we're encouraging each other."

The challenge was launched, said a spokesperson, as a way of not only improving midwives' morale and their fitness but also setting a 'good example' to the mums they care for.

The team that records the most miles nationally will claim £100 for its RCM branch to use on a 'wellbeing initiative'.

The ABMU total will now be revealed at a midwives' study day on May 5, when the winners will be announced and small prizes handed out.

Karen said: "This challenge has been another way of keeping up morale. We already have an appreciation box where people can give details of someone who has done something above and beyond for another midwife – even if it's just bringing someone who hasn't had a break or a cup of tea."

'I feel quite overwhelmed' 'Inspirational' Brynteg teacher is nominated for top award by pupil who went to Oxford

Teacher Debra Walsh.

Student Elis Harrington.

A SECONDARY school teacher from Bridgend has been honoured by Oxford University for the inspirational role she played for one of her former students.

Debra Walsh, a French teacher at Brynteg Comprehensive School in Bridgend is one of 10 teachers recognised in Oxford's 'Inspirational Teachers Awards'.

She was nominated by Elis Harrington, who is currently studying modern languages at Jesus College, Oxford.

Debra said: "I am absolutely delighted to have been nominated by Elis for this award, and although it is a privilege to be recognised in this way, I feel quite overwhelmed.

"As a teacher I feel it is my responsibility to do my best to foster enthusiasm and cultivate an interest in my subject area. Teaching is a vocation, and when a student shows curiosity for knowledge and learning, the skill is in recognising it and helping them to deepen and broaden their knowledge.

"My advice to students applying to university is: never think that you have set the bar too high. If you aim high and you are committed, the opportunities and rewards are immeasurable."

Elis (19), from Bridgend, said: "Madame Walsh always acted as the backbone to my learning, particularly at times when I had doubts about which academic path I wanted to take. Her faith and confidence in me drove me to believe that I could achieve great things, such as getting a place to study at Oxford University.

"That faith is something I believe to be fundamental in a teacher, especially when so many students don't even apply because they believe that they are 'not posh enough' for a university such as Oxford. Admittedly, I had those thoughts myself, but it was the constant reassurance and support I received from Madame Walsh that convinced me I was capable.

"As for my time in Oxford, so far it has been brilliant. The tutorial environment truly offers students the chance to explore literature and language more than they may be able to from lectures alone, which is a feature that makes Oxford stand apart."

The Inspirational Teachers scheme recognises the role teachers and careers advisers play in encouraging talented students in their schools or colleges. A selection of current first-year Oxford undergraduates were asked to nominate teachers or careers advisers who inspired them to apply to Oxford, fostered their passion for a particular subject, or supported them through the application process.

The winning teachers will receive their awards at a ceremony held at Oxford's St Peter's College on Friday, May 19.

Oxford University's Vice-Chancellor, Professor Louise Richardson, said: "Inspirational teachers make a lifelong impression on their students. Every one of us, of any age, can remember a teacher who challenged and inspired us, who brought out the best in us, and motivated us to do more."

"Oxford's standing as one of the world's pre-eminent universities is underpinned not only by the excellence of its research against global benchmarks, but by the acknowledged quality of its teaching. Congratulations to all of this year's award recipients."

Claire (54) is stunned by her first marathon

AN EWENNY woman aged 54 who only took up running 18 months ago has amazed herself by running the London Marathon in under five hours!

Claire Swallow completed the course in four hours, 52 minutes – and this was only after starting running to make up numbers in a new running club.

That club was set up by Rhian Foxhall from Physica Fitness & Nuffield Health Gym in Bridgend. Claire went along expecting to jog for 20 minutes but was mortified to discover 60 minutes running was planned.

Following a family tragedy, Claire wanted to fundraise for 'Tommy's' – a charity working to reduce the incidence of miscarriage, premature birth and stillbirth, and running the marathon seemed a great way of doing this. Claire said: "Rhian has been with me every step of the way. She drew up a training plan, devised gym programmes to support my running, advised on diet and ran along with me on the longer distances.

"She even cheered me on along the course as I ran the 26.2 miles through the streets of London.

"I'm so grateful for all my wonderful family and friends for their amazing help and support in raising over £5,000."

If you would like help the fund towards its £6,000 target

Book for Welsh learners raising funds for eisteddfod

A NEW book written for Welsh learners has just been published, written and illustrated by Maesteg residents Kathryn Jones and Colin Jones.

They hope the book will raise funds for the forthcoming Urded eisteddfod and to welcome visitors to the area.

A spokesperson said: "Having learned so much about Wales through learning Welsh, it seemed a natural step for them to do this to support the Urded.

"Of particular inspiration to the authors was the early work of Sir Ifan ab Owen Edwards, the founder of Urded Gobaith Cymru, who did much to promote the Welsh language in writing illustrated stories for children and travelling around Wales to his audiences."

The book describes a week's holiday in Wales as seen from the perspective of a dog called Cynwyd and "should appeal to all ages".

Cynwyd y Ci will be available to buy from libraries at £4 in collaboration with Awen Cultural Trust, as well as from Siop yr Hen Bont in Bridgend.

It will be featured at Maesteg library at 2pm on May 20 and at the Urded eisteddfod held in Pencoe college between May 29 and June 3.

Lion Mike presented with international award

DISTRICT Governor of 105W Godfrey Morris recently presented the International President's Certificate of Appreciation to Mike Greenway of Bridgend Lions Club, in recognition of distinguished achievements in fulfilling the mission of Lions Club International.

The award affirms the appreciation and gratitude of the Association from Chancellor Bob Corlew, International President 2016–2017.

Mike, who has worked tirelessly for Lions throughout the years, is a busy solicitor, married to Karen and the dad to three grown-up sons, Andrew, Will and James.

'Intention' to keep Wales a car producing region

THE Government is aiming to ensure that car engines will continue being made at the Ford plant at Bridgend.

The pledge has come from Welsh Under-Secretary Guto Bebb in response to questions in the Commons.

Labour MP for Cardiff West, Kevin Brennan, told Mr Bebb of his concern about possible unequal treatment under the Government's industrial strategy for Wales.

He said there has been silence about Bridgend and Ford compared with what has been said about Nissan and the north-east.

Mr Brennan asked the minister if he would guarantee that Ford in south Wales will get exactly the same treatment as Nissan in the north-east.

Mr Bebb said he could reassure Mr Brennan that ministers and officials have been in regular discussions with Ford at Bridgend.

He said: "Those discussions are ongoing and constructive, and they involve the Welsh Government as well. Our aim and intention is to ensure that Bridgend remains a car producing area."

Mr Bebb also referred to the decision by Aston Martin to invest in Wales and said the UK, including Wales, remains the same outward-looking and globally-minded country it has always been.

He said: "International businesses, such as Aston Martin, choose to invest in Wales as a result of the great work done by the Department for International Trade and the Wales Office, working hand in glove with the Welsh Government."

"That shows that Wales continues to be a great investment destination."

Questions over EU 'divorce settlement'

THE EU wants us to pay up to £60 billion as a divorce settlement. In divorces, it is usual to split the house as well as the liabilities.

Has anyone done any calculations on the value of our payments to improve the European house over the last 40-odd years in the shape of roads, railways, bridges, airports, schools, hospitals, metros and so on?

If this is more than £60 billion, what happens then?

Bridgend's new collections for absorbent waste

HOMES that use nappies and other absorbent waste products can register now for a new fortnightly collection which will start on Monday, June 5, as part of a series of changes to home recycling in Bridgend county borough.

A spokesman for Bridgend County Borough Council (CBCB) said: "As part of a bid to make the county borough one of the greenest places to live in Wales, residents will start using several new recycling containers from Monday, June 5, while households with up to five occupants will be limited to throwing out a maximum of two rubbish bags each fortnight.

"To enable parents to achieve that limit, they can register for the 'Absorbent Hygiene Products' collections, which will be picked up on the same day as their non-recyclable waste."

"In total, the Absorbent Hygiene Products service will cater for nappies, wipes, paper tissues, stoma bags, adult incontinence pads and nappies, absorbent bed sheets, plastic gloves and disposable aprons. It will NOT be for feminine hygiene products."

"To apply for the new Absorbent Hygiene Products collection (which will use purple bags) please call 01656 643643 or email recyclingandwaste@bridgend.gov.uk.

"Properties with six or more residents can also now call or email to apply for extra bags ahead of the new waste limits coming into effect. Coal fire users can also apply for extra bags to dispose of their ash."

The spokesman added that homes across Bridgend county borough will soon be receiving information packs describing all of the changes to home recycling which come into effect from Monday, June 5.

Residents are also asked to look out for their new collection calendars, which will be included in the packs, as collection days are changing for most homes.

The new recycling containers will then be delivered to all homes, separately from the information packs, before June. Residents will also receive a roll of specially branded waste bags which should be used for their non-recyclable waste.

Full details about all of the changes can be found online at www.recycleforbridgend.wales.

Bridgend Astronomy

BRIDGEND Astronomical Society will hold its last meeting of the year on May 12 in Pyle Church Hall (7.30pm) when the society's education officer, Jon Laver FRAS, will talk on 'The Basics of Astronomy.'

The new season then begins on September 8 when Dr Chris North of the BBC's Sky at Night will discuss 'The Mysteries of the Solar System.' Not to be missed! More on www.bridgendastronomicalsociety.co.uk

'Black is the Colour of My Voice' – the life of Nina Simone

APPHIA Campbell brings her one-woman show to the Coytrahen Centre on Wednesday, May 17 after her previous appearance in Wales at Cardiff's Millennium Centre.

The show 'Black is the Colour of my Voice' is currently on a tour of the UK and is receiving rave reviews, with previous sellout performances in New York, Shanghai and the Edinburgh Fringe Festival; it is a journey through the turbulent life of the soul singer Nina Simone.

Apphia will perform the first half by taking us through Nina's turbulent life; from a successful child pianist who was denied a scholarship in Philadelphia allegedly due to her colour, to becoming a successful recording artist – 'the high priestess of Soul' – with deep civil rights issues stemming from her earlier life.

For the second half of the concert, Apphia will be performing live, all the songs that made Nina Apphia Campbell portraying Nina Simone.

Simone famous performing arts to local venues at affordable prices, therefore the ticket prices are £5 for this 'not to be missed' night out."

Tickets from Jean Faulkner on 01656 720086, Iris Hill on 01656 720840 or on the door (7.30pm start).

Rotary presidents meet at Aberavon area meeting

DISTRICT 1150 held its area meeting at the Aberavon Coast

Hotel on April 27. In attendance was Liz Davies, assistant district governor supported by her successor, Alison Sutherland.

The meeting was hosted by Neath Port Talbot Rotary Club and the following 1150 District clubs were represented by their presidents, president elects and various officers: Paul Thomas, president RC Port Talbot; Bob Broughton, president RC Bridgend; Wayne Morgan, PE RC Bridgend; Liz Davies, Current AG Area 7, RC Cardiff East; Vic James, PE RC Neath; David Harris, PE RC Cowbridge; Alison Sutherland, incoming AG Area 7, RC Cardiff Bay; Geoff Henderson, PE RC Port Talbot; Sandra Townsend, PE RC Porthcawl; Steven Blackman, president RC Cowbridge; Gwynfor Griffiths, RC Swansea Valley.

The agenda was busy, with Rtn Clive Edwards, District Governor nominee presenting a questionnaire on a district review. This prompted much debate and lively conversation.

Youth activities, competitions, area quiz and Rotary centenary in Wales were also discussed. This was an interesting and fruitful meeting which was followed by a splendid meal with good company and fine fare.

Award-winning charity needs willing helpers

by PHILIP IRWIN

A LOCAL charity is making an appeal for help – not just for money but for volunteers who can help it continue its award-winning work.

It was only in March that Community Furniture Aid received an award in the Mayor of Bridgend County Borough's Citizenship Awards.

It was also the winner of the Bridgend Association of Voluntary Organisations (BAVO) 'Project of the Year' in 2016.

The citation read: "This group of around 15 volunteers make sure that the most vulnerable members of the community have furniture."

"Based in Pontycymer, the group source donated furniture and supply it to everyone from single people to families with children."

Now, however, after losing a number of volunteers, the charity could close.

It is run by Julian and Marianne Cash, and Marianne issued this appeal:

It's Moon vs Robson in battle for Bridgend

KAREN ROBSON has been chosen as the Welsh Conservative parliamentary candidate for Bridgend – a decision that has upset some Bridgend constituency members, who say they would have preferred a 'local' candidate.

After the selection, Karen Robson said: "This is an opportunity to break Labour's 30-year grip on Bridgend and provide people with an alternative voice at Westminster."

However, soon after the decision was taken, the media were contacted with a prepared email from a "concerned Bridgend conservative" saying: "CCHQ has imposed Karen Robson on the Bridgend Conservative Association as expected in spite of the association's disgust at the attempt to impose a candidate.

"They have rejected

Julian and Marianne Cash with the Mayor of Bridgend County Borough, Coun Reg Jenkins (centre).

"I am secretary at this award-winning registered charity. We have been running for a few years after taking over from old management. We are very active, self-funded and successful at what we do.

"Some people say we are too small to matter. The bigger charities swallow up all the donations and publicity but even though we are small, we do matter.

"As the saying goes, have you ever tried sleeping in a room with a mosquito?"

She continued: "We provide a service of clean reusable items in a large pack containing all the furniture, household items and toys needed to set up a comfortable home to people of all backgrounds and circumstances who are moving on from homelessness into unfurnished accommodation.

"This is normally three-to-five van loads for a single person containing everything from beds and bedding to kitchen pack and living room items – and whatever more will make it a home.

"To date, in just less than three years, we have fully furnished homes for 265 families, as well as part packs to many hundreds more covering all of Bridgend county borough and surrounding areas.

"The work we do is accessed by all departments of the local council, as well as 30 agencies and charities who use us on a regular basis.

"We are told we are a front line service, a vital link, and the only chance for the very poorest to have access to having a furnished home, helping vulnerable people who are too poor to buy from even the cheapest charity shop.

"We see hardship and deprivation unthought-of in the 21st century on a daily basis and it sadly no longer shocks us when we see children sleeping on concrete floors and elderly with soiled beds.

"Even with all the 'good work' we do we are still finding it impossible to register on the public consciousness. Thus we get passed over for fundraising activities by national charitable organisations often in favour of much bigger charities with dedicated media departments.

"We have been asked by journalists and media companies to disclose the most heart-wrenching stories including children, the most appalling cases of neglect and desperation, so that they may follow us and publicise the work we do.

"We do not feel it is right to feed on others' misery purely as a way to get publicity for our own charity. They deserve dignity as they rebuild their lives.

"We do love our work otherwise we would have closed long ago. Our tiny team is made up of long term unemployed, retired and disabled.

"We have volunteers who have learning difficulties and autism. I am disabled with lifelong chronic pain conditions which mean I have no physical role to play.

"Now it is true we have a wish list of things we would love to have, such as a bigger van, as ours is on its last gasp, water and power at our building and to have the broken windows covered would also be wonderful.

"However above all this we need people to come and volunteer with us.

"We are looking for fit strong individuals who can carry heavy furniture and manage not to drop the china!

"People able to set up and run funding pages, YouTube channels and get our profile raised.

"People of any age or background can come and join us so we can stay open and expand our work to help more people.

"We can offer training and a great time is had by all, really changing people lives, not only those we deliver to but those who we collect from, who are often bereaved families. Volunteers benefit too, and often go onto employment."

Community Furniture Aid can be contacted at The Gothic, Alexandra Road, Pontycymer, Bridgend CF32 8HB, or by telephone on 07597 317338.

Local cricket pavilion gets its grand opening!

THE Southerndown Cricket and Social Club has joined forces with the Great Western Cricket Club to open the newly renovated pavilion on the beautiful Heritage Coast in Southerndown.

Thanks to the Dunraven Estate, the club has a lease to play cricket for the next five years.

Locals and cricket fans arrived Sunday morning to attend the grand opening and to enjoy the food, drink, craft stalls and music. The Secretary of State for Wales Alun Cairns was also in attendance to unveil the new pavilion.

Mr Cairns took time out of his busy schedule to come and chat to local businesses about the value of local Welsh produce and products.

There were stalls, candles, chocolates and much more. Live music was provided by a variety of local musicians and, despite the damp weather, spirits were high.

Local community councillor Jill Needham said, "It was great to see the hard work from members of the community coming to fruition. Hopefully, the cricket pavilion will be a place where everyone can gather and enjoy our beautiful village."

Carys Stallard, the chair of the Southerndown Cricket Club, has worked tirelessly over the last few years to ensure the future of cricket in the area.

Michelle Davies, of Shelly's Foods and The Welsh Shortbread Company, was instrumental in organising and planning the day. Robert Hopkin has done an amazing job rejuvenating the old pavilion, along with the Great Western cricket team.

Donations have come in from locals, friends and businesses, with all wanting to help make the project a success.

Howden's Joinery donated the kitchen and Waterstone's Homes, Euroclad, SDM Glass, Hanson, Steve Richmond Carpets, Rabart Paint Centre and Cricket Wales have all made this project possible.

Every Saturday from now until the end of September, league cricket will be played at Southerndown, with a barbecue at the end of every month.

The club welcomes locals, tourists and cricket fans to come together with the community in Southerndown to enjoy a game, the sunshine or a refreshing drink.

Leave a legacy in her will? Sue prefers to give a guide dog gift right now

A BRIDGEND woman with a passion for guide dogs will be the guest of honour at a new puppy training facility.

Sue Harper is the first supporter to have a plaque erected at Guide Dogs Cymru's centre in Cardiff in recognition of her support for its newest young recruits.

A television advert prompted her to donate an initial £5,000 to name a puppy, and she has continued to support the Cardiff centre financially as it expands to accommodate younger dogs.

"I've never had money and always scrimped and saved," said Sue. "I was going to leave money to Guide Dogs in my will. But after meeting my puppy, I decided to donate another £8,000 while I'm still alive."

"That way, I have the enjoyment of seeing my puppy progress through guide dog training, right here in Wales."

Sue, a lifelong dog fan, chose to call her puppy Harper. "I was going to name her after my mother, but I thought Harper would be better," she said. "Six weeks after she was born I was sent a picture of my puppy, and I was bouncing with excitement."

The pure golden retriever spent her first year in Chepstow with puppy walker Ingrid Shotton, who brought her to visit Sue. "It made me want to know more about how the dogs are trained, and how they are partnered with their eventual owner," said Sue.

"I didn't realise Guide Dogs used lots of different breeds, and how much goes into the training."

Harper is now 13 months old, and is one of the first sponsored guide dogs to receive all her training in Wales. "I might never know where she ends up, but I know she will make her owner's life so much better," said Sue.

"She might go to someone who is alone and doesn't have much in life, but I know Harper will give her all to help them get out and about, and be a really good friend."

"Dogs talk to you with their eyes. They don't ask for much, just to be fed, watered and loved. When I moved, I had to give up my pet Yorkshire terrier, Muffin, and it broke my heart.

"I felt I had let him down, but supporting Guide Dogs has given me a real high."

training centre or naming a guide dog puppy, contact community fundraiser Allison Charles on 07990 540130 or Allison.charles@guidedogs.org.uk

IT'S ALL GO AT THE VALE PHOTOGRAPHIC CLUB!

THE first Vale Cider Cup (sponsored by Vale Cider), a competition between the Vale and Bridgend Camera Clubs, aimed at getting maximum participation of club members, was held recently.

In all, 48 different photographers' prints were considered.

A spokesperson said: "The Vale won by the narrowest of margins. Peter Young was the judge brave enough to take on a different kind of competition."

"Comicon came to the Vale for a photoshoot in the hope of getting some quality images to post on social media. They work hard to create spectacular outfits based on their favourite films, videogames or comic characters or just dress up for the fun of it. We hope they liked the images from members."

This month also saw the opening of 'Taken in the Vale', the first exhibition to be hosted by the Senedd Oriel, Cardiff Bay.

The exhibition of 29 of members' prints runs until May 19. Many months of preparation went into this event and despite the venue changing at a late date, the committee managed to put on a display.

The thorny issue of censorship raised its head with one of the images being removed after the exhibition opened as it contained nudity.

The club will publish a book featuring the work shown in this exhibition (including the 'missing photograph') with input and sponsorship from The Vale of Glamorgan Tourist Board.

Next month the club is looking forward to a presentation by Don Morely - the man who took the iconic photo of Muhammad Ali when he became world champion.

He may tell us how he managed to be the first photojournalist to get that picture to press well before all the others.

For further information, see www.vale-photographic-club.co.uk.

PORTHCAWL NEWS - MAY 1917

Major CAS Morris.

Porthcawl historian Ceri Joseph continues her series on life in the town during World War One. This month, she looks at May, 1917.

A TOTAL of 158,000 BRITISH and Commonwealth casualties were sustained at Arras.

Although in early April the Canadian and British advance at Vimy Ridge and at Scarpe, respectively, gained three half miles of land, the most in one advance since 1914, this first phase in the Battle of Arras was deceptively successful in relation to the whole of the offensive.

The Arras offensive largely resulted in a stalemate, with its main achievement being the relieving of pressure on the French forces in their attempt to break through the German lines, further south at Chemin des Dames.

Under General Robert Nivelle, the huge number of French casualties suffered through being ordered to continuously attack what was an impregnable German stronghold, eventually led to the mutinying of French troops on May 5. Consequently General Petain, who as Marshall Petain would receive the German surrender on November 11, 1918 in the Compeigne Forest, replaced Nivelle on May 15, 1917. Further, of the 35,000 men who mutinied, approximately 3000 were punished with imprisonment and 57 executed.

The Porthcawl News of May 1917 relayed two contrasting dispatches from Arras. Corporal Arthur Cecil Avenell, 6th Battalion Wiltshire Regiment, who lived with his mother at Suffolk Place had been awarded the Military Medal for gallantry in the field during the Arras offensive at Scarpe, while the death Major Charles Alan Smith Morris of Clevis House, Newton, was to throw a deep sadness over the town.

Charles Alan Smith Morris was the third child and only son born to Maud and Charles Smith Morris on May 15, 1895 at Bridgend. His father, Charles, was the second son of landowner George Byng Morris (1816-1899) who owned the Mynydd Newydd Copper mine at Fforestfach, where he most probably gained the interest which, as a mining engineer, would take him initially to Cardiff and eventually Bridgend.

Charles Senior also played for Swansea RFC 1876-1878; playing against Landoverly College on November 4, 1876 in the first competitive match held at the new St Helen's field. His brother George Lockwood Morris gained Swansea's first international cap in 1878.

Sadly young Charles, although a keen sportsman, would not get the opportunity to play rugby at that level because after completing his education at Wellington College, and his first year at Pembroke College Cambridge, where he was studying law, he enlisted as an officer in the 3rd Battalion Bedfordshire Regiment.

On March 5, 1915 his battalion landed in France where, within a few days, he had been transferred to the 2nd Battalion and was engaged in the Battle of Neuve Chapelle where he suffered a shrapnel wound to the right knee.

Following his convalescence Lieutenant Morris was posted with over 1,500 Bedfordshires to Salonika to swell the ranks of the 5th Royal Irish Fusiliers whose number had been depleted at Gallipoli. Landing on November 18, once again Lt Morris was soon to find himself in the action but this time in charge of a company.

Despite having little frontline experience, on December 8, his battalion having lost men and their position (a fortification on 'Rocky Peak,') Lt Morris personally led a counter-attack and regained the ground. However, the Bulgars

Huw Morgan with Rhian Jenkins

Rhian hands over her baton

AFTER 20 years in charge of Maesteg Male Voice Choir, Rhian Jenkins has decided to take more of a background role and has handed the baton over to her deputy, Huw Morgan.

Members of the choir, although understanding her reasons, are sorry for her decision and would like to thank her for the extremely hard work she has put in over the years to make the choir a popular choice to perform for numerous charities over the UK.

Huw Morgan, who joined as deputy musical director seven years ago, will use his experience and knowledge to ensure the choir will continue to perform with the same expertise instilled during Rhian's tenure with the choir.

retaliated with constant shell and machine gun fire. Morris was hit and disappeared into the descending fog. Fortunately, his batman found him and carried him down the mountain to safety.

Charles Morris had been shot in the shoulder, yet after another bout of treatment he returned to the frontlines in September 1916. Having been promoted to Captain he was given the command of a raiding party only a couple of days after arriving.

During the months leading up to the Battle of Arras Morris's battalion, 1st Bedfordshires, was engaged in general trench duties; but on April 23, as part of the British 5th Division, they were ordered to attack the German position at La Coulette.

'Captain Charles Morris, in command of 'B' Company was killed whilst he rallied his men and led another attack from the front against the machine-guns dominating the second trench line.' (Extract taken from '1st Bedfordshires. Part Two; Arras to the Armistice')

Officially referred to as Acting Major Morris, he was initially reported as having been killed on April 23. However, some months later his personal effects were among five cases returned to England via the Red Cross, in which it was stated that he had died as a prisoner at Malmaison a fortnight later on May 7. Major Charles Alan Smith Morris was 21 years old.

Initially Major Morris's body was one of six British soldiers buried, by the enemy, in the Evin-Malmaison Communal Cemetery. However, following the end of the war the Imperial War Graves Commission removed the graves to the Pont de Jour military cemetery, Athies, north-east of Arras.

The IWGC, which changed its name in 1961 to the Commonwealth War Graves Commission, had acquired many plots of land along the Western front in the years after the war in which to re-locate many graves, which had been dug indiscriminately amid the carnage.

Originally the brain-child of Sir Fabian Ware, who had recognized among the enormous number of servicemen being killed the need to document and record the names of the fallen and their graves, the IWGC was granted its Royal Charter on May 21, 1917.

In 1919 Major Morris's parents were two of the first relatives to journey to the battlefields to pay homage to their loved one. For anyone this journey would have proved exceptionally difficult, as modes of travel would have been arduous and the battleground still scarred with ruts and shell holes. Yet for Charles senior it would have been even worse, as he was registered blind. Consequently it was Charles senior who donated £100 to the Porthcawl War Memorial fund, thus enabling it to be designed and erected in 1921.

On the home front, Porthcawlians continued with their aim to feed the town via a plethora of allotments. Over 200 allotments were in use in and around Porthcawl. This may have influenced the decision to hold a 'war cookery demonstration' in John Street, in order to promote food economy.

The end of the month, unfortunately, failed to avoid more sad news. Chief Petty Officer Richard Power, Mercantile Marine, had drowned following a U-Boat attack on his ship, the SS Mary Baird. The Mary Baird had been sunk off the coast of north west Cornwall on May 18, 1917.

Richard, born in 1872, was one of nine children born to Morris and Martha Power. Morris worked as a pilot at Porthcawl Dock and, as a consequence, the family lived on Pilots Row, which has since been demolished.

Pilots Row would have been in the Square, behind the Pier Hotel. Before Richard was 20 years he had joined the Merchant Service, attaining his Second Mate's Certificate in 1895, First Mate's in 1899 and Master Mariner's Certificate in 1902.

Before 1891 his parents had moved to 5 Wells Street, Porthcawl; and in 1901 Richard had married Sarah Catherine Power (nee Davies) and set up home in Roath, Cardiff, where their daughter Annie was born. Before 1911 Richard and his family had moved to 40 Dinas Street, Grangetown, Cardiff.

By the time of his death, Richard had served in the Merchant Service for over 26 years.

Changes to home recycling

This summer we're making Bridgend County Borough one of the greenest places to live in Wales by introducing a number of changes to how you recycle at home.

Starting 5 June 2017, you will have...

- New recycling containers for weekly collections
- A new limit of two bags per fortnight for your waste*
- A separate fortnightly collection for nappies and absorbent waste (not sanitary waste)

More than half of homes will also have a change to their collection day.

*Households with more than five occupants, and homes using coal fires as their main source of heat, will be able to apply for additional bags.

Newidiadau i ailgylchu yn y cartref

JITTERBUGS, NOT DOODLEBUGS, AT BRIDGEND'S WWII FUN DAY

A replica Spitfire will be at the event.

BRIDGEND played an important role in World War Two and on June 10, this will be marked at a forthcoming Wartime Bridgend event.

The town centre will be transformed to the 1940s with demonstrations, period games and activities that were commonplace during the war, including toy soldier painting, 1940s' cooking, poppy making, school life, polio, candle-making, 'Make Do and Mend' and much more.

Live music entertainment will take place throughout the day, alongside historical walks by John Dunkley-Williams, a rationing stall organised by Bryntirion Comprehensive and a 'Dig for Victory' display by Bridgend allotments.

Bridgend and District Local History Society will present a photographic exhibition in Carnegie House, alongside Michael Ridley's wartime display.

No-one will want to miss the full size replica of the Spitfire MK I/II aircraft in Dunraven Place or the Winston Churchill 'lookalike', who will make an appearance around the town throughout the day.

The events will close with an evening of wartime entertainment in Bridgend Rugby Club, featuring international swing vocalist and trumpeter Ricky Hunter and 1940s sweetheart, Amanda Beaumont. Be swept back to the big band era with hits from Glenn Miller, Frank Sinatra and the Andrews Sisters.

The 1940s' Night Out will be a wonderful end to Wartime Bridgend, so whether you're a jiver, a lindy-hopper, a foxrotter, or you just enjoy a good ol' sing-along, there will be something for everyone!

Tickets for the 1940s' Night Out can be booked at www.carnegiehouse.co.uk or 01656 815757.

Wartime Bridgend promises to be a unique experience in historical terms for the Bridgend area and will be great day out for all the family.

Further details can be found on www.facebook.com/wartimebridgend and #WartimeBridgend.

Plaid Cymru name their man for General Election

Plaid Cymru's Rhys Watkins.

PLAID CYMRU has selected Bridgend local construction site manager and charity campaigner, Rhys Watkins as their candidate to fight the General Election campaign in Bridgend.

Mr Watkins, who will be standing in his hometown, was selected by his local constituency party in an open primary meeting in Porthcawl and was approved by the national party on Friday (April 28).

Mr Watkins, who lives in Kenfig Hill, has predominately worked in construction and rail project management.

Locally, he is passionate about education, health and the restoration of the Parc Slip open cast site.

Speaking after his unanimous selection, he said: "I am delighted to be standing as the Plaid Cymru candidate in my home town of Bridgend and I am privileged to have the opportunity to make a real difference to the town where my children were born and which I have called home for many years.

"I believe that we are best placed to stand up to the Tories in Westminster - especially given the divided nature of Labour both locally and nationally.

"Labour's division both locally over councillor deselections and nationally over Brexit has resulted in weak leadership against the Tories.

"With these uncertain times ahead, there has never been a better time to vote Plaid Cymru. One thing you get with Plaid Cymru representation, is a determination to relentlessly defend Wales' interests and her communities."

New IPF group in Bridgend

RESPIRATORY staff at Princess of Wales Hospital are launching a support group for people with idiopathic pulmonary fibrosis (IPF), their families and carers, in the Bridgend area.

Pulmonary fibrosis causes scar tissue to form in the lungs, but the cause is presently unknown. People with IPF have shortness of breath - at first during more strenuous activities like walking uphill or stairs.

However, as the fibrosis increases, breathlessness occurs with every day activities, including washing and dressing or eating and talking.

The new group will meet for the first time between 11am and 1pm on Thursday, May 11 at Bridgend Tennis Club, Bridgend. Patients and carers will meet others with IPF and will be able to find out more about the condition and share experiences.

Respiratory specialist nurse, Natalie Murray, who is organising the group said: "About 5,000 people are diagnosed every year in the UK with IPF.

"This group will provide much needed advice and support from professionals, as well as opportunities for patients and carers to meet other people with the same condition.

"In the first meeting, we'll introduce the team of health care specialists involved in patient care and treatment. Patients and their families will have the opportunity to put forward ideas and suggestions about what would be useful to them.

"As the group develops, we hope to organise guest speakers on specific topics as requested by the members."

The group will meet once a month and refreshments will be provided.

Anyone interested in joining should call Natalie Murray on 07812 672366 or email natalie.murray@wales.nhs.uk.

MAY FAIR FUN IN COWBRIDGE

PHOTOGRAPHS by MIKE WILCOCK

FROM bonny babies to bounding bulls and cantering cows, and from choirs to cadets to cream cakes, Cowbridge's May Fair, held last Monday (May 4), had something for almost everyone – and even the weather for the fair was, well, mostly fair.

Organised by the Llantwit Major and Cowbridge Lions Club, the event attracted people from all over the Vale and further afield.

Crematorium donates £5,000 to Marie Curie from recycling scheme

PICTURED: Assistant manager at Cardiff and Glamorgan Memorial Park, Claire Davies, Marie Curie community fundraiser Hannah Leckie, manager of Cardiff and Glamorgan Memorial Park Michelle Jones and Marie Curie community fundraiser Clare Wright.

A £5,000 donation has been presented to a Penarth hospice, thanks to a recycling scheme at a nearby crematorium memorial park.

Marie Curie community fundraisers, which provides care and support to people living with a terminal illness and their families, were delighted to accept the donation from Cardiff and Glamorgan Memorial Park.

Michelle Jones, manager of the crematorium and assistant manager Claire Davies, visited the charity's Cardiff and the Vale Hospice to present the donation to community fundraisers Hannah Leckie and Clare Wright.

The funds were raised as part of the team's work with the ICCM (Institute for Cemetery and Crematorium Management) to raise funds through their Recycling of Metals Scheme. The scheme has raised £3.3 million nationally since it was established.

Michelle said: "At Cardiff and Glamorgan Memorial Park, we understand that living with a loved one who has a terminal illness can be a difficult and emotional time.

"We were absolutely delighted and honoured to be able to provide Marie Curie with the much-needed funds they require in order to continue to help families in need."

Hannah Leckie, community fundraiser for the hospice, said: "We are so grateful to Cardiff and Glamorgan Memorial Park and Crematorium for selecting Marie Curie as their chosen charity on this occasion.

"This will help us continue to provide expert, round-the-clock care and support to people living with a terminal illness and their families."

TAX ADVICE FOR OLDER PEOPLE

A TAXHELP for Older People (TOP) surgery, offering free professional advice to older people on a restricted income, with income tax queries and/or problems will be held at Roz Couzen's Chiropractic Surgery, Unit 4, Commercial House, Commercial Street, Llantwit Major CF61 1RB on Monday, May 8 from 10am until midday.

Home visits can be arranged via the helpline for people unable to attend the surgery.

ASTRONOMY CORNER

RIGHT: Cassini has observed icy jets spewing from an underground global ocean on Saturn's moon, Enceladus, which scientists believe might be hospitable to alien life.

JUPITER has passed its maximum brightness but still shines prominently in the early night sky.

Saturn reaches its northern summer solstice when its north pole points directly towards the Sun and thus, pretty much towards Earth too, so the rings will be on brilliant display.

This only happens every 29 years. The US space agency (NASA) is calling an end to 12 years of Cassini's exploration and discovery at Saturn because the probe's propellant tanks are all but empty. Cassini has used a gravitational slingshot around Saturn's moon Titan to put it into an orbit that takes it in between the planet's rings and its atmosphere.

This is the grand finale for Cassini as the manoeuvre also means that it cannot escape a fiery plunge into Saturn's clouds in September.

At the end of April, Cassini pulled on the gravitational 'elastic band' one last time to shift from an orbit that grazes the outer edge of Saturn's main ring system to an orbit that skims the inner edge, and puts it less than 3,000km above the planet's cloud tops.

The probe has already made two of these gap runs and will make 20 more, repeating the dive every six and a half days until its final death plunge at 10:45 GMT on September 15.

The Eta Aquarid meteor shower, produced by dust particles left behind by Halley's comet, becomes visible during the evenings of May 6 and 7 with up to 30 sightings per hour.

Mental health isn't just the absence of illness

MAY 8-14 is Mental Health Awareness Week and lecturer in sport and fitness at The Open University, Karen Howells, recently talked about how exercise, specifically running, can impact on mental health and how to get started.

She said: "We know exercise is good for us; physically it can prevent diseases such as diabetes and keep us at a healthy weight. It can also have a positive impact on our mental health, particularly affecting stress, anxiety and depression. However, mental health is not just the absence of a mental illness, it is also how we feel such as our self-esteem, mood, and feelings of belonging – these are all things exercise can boost.

"The physiological explanation of why exercise can impact on our mental health is that it boosts dopamine and serotonin levels and releases endorphins. Dopamine and serotonin have a positive effect on our attention levels so we feel more engaged as a result; and endorphins can boost our mood.

"Particularly with running, there is a social element which can boost our mental wellbeing. For example, with the London Marathon, even those who didn't get a place are still encouraged through email contact to get involved in running and go out with local groups. If you run with like-minded people, it can enhance your sense of belonging, self-worth and self-esteem.

Running in itself is also a distraction and can give people time away from a cycle of negative thoughts that are often characteristic of depression.

"Although we may all start with the best of intentions, having some structure and setting goals can increase the likelihood that we are going to continue after that first day! If you're not a runner, a good way to start is with something like the 'Couch to 5K' app which gives you a structure and some short term goals.

"Having company is also a good motivator and increases your chances of continuing, starting with someone in the same position can be helpful, as is joining a club. The social support is important early on to ensure people stick with what they are doing, often there are good intentions but these can easily fall away."

DOUBLE SUCCESS FOR COLLEGE

Alice Fudge receives the hair-up level two award from Sarah Chamberlain of City & Guilds, and Berni Tyler, managing director of ISA Training.

CARDIFF and Vale College celebrated a successful day at Wales' 'premier hair and beauty event' in Cardiff on Sunday.

The college won two of the eight competitions and had another four students in top three placings at Salon Cymru, which attracted around 500 competitors and spectators to Y Plas, Cardiff University's Students' Union.

Salon Cymru is organised by Bridgend-based ISA Training, the largest independent hair and beauty training provider in Wales.

Hairdressing and beauty talent from across Wales attended the annual event in Cardiff to showcase their creative skills.

Alice Fudge, 22, who works in Cardiff's Precision salon, won the hair-up competition for level two students and Nadia Hadjali, 41, from Barry, won the hair-up level three award.

Other placings saw Emily Taylor come second in the hair-up level two, Shohreh Taherian and Ortise Jolone Nelly Tametah come second and third respectively in the hair-up level three and Elizabeth Connors come second in the barbering level two.

Alice, who opted for a career in hairdressing after achieving a degree in event management, said she was amazed to win the hair-up competition just nine months into her apprenticeship.

"It's only my second competition and I wasn't expecting to win," she said. "Competing has been an amazing experience and I'll be back next year."

She hopes to become a session stylist and develop skills in theatrical make-up.

Nadia came to Wales six years ago. She explained that she had wanted to become a hairdresser from the age of five and was now realising her dream.

"Salon Cymru is my favourite competition and it means a lot to me to win this award," added Nadia, whose ambition is to work on a fashion shoot.

"I love to take part and to challenge myself and to win is the cherry on the cake."

DIABETES EVENT

THE Vale of Glamorgan Diabetes UK Voluntary Group meets next on Tuesday, May 16 in the Board Room, Llandough Hospital, Penarth from 7.30pm - 9pm.

The speaker will be Dorothy Debrah (Cardiff and Vale UHB - Dietetics) will be giving a talk on 'Your Diabetes, Your Diet' which will encompass peoples' diets for both Type 1 and Type 2 diabetes. Anyone welcome!

HILARY PASCOE will be zip-lining for her 70th birthday to fundraise for The Wildlife Trust of South and West Wales.

Hilary will be heading to north Wales this Friday (a week before her 70th birthday) to take on the fastest zip line in the world: Zipworld Velocity in Bethesda. The zip line reaches speeds of up to 100mph.

Hilary said: "I wanted to do something a bit different to mark my 70th birthday and, in the process, raise some funds for The Wildlife Trust. "I didn't fancy cycling up Everest and I can't run a marathon as I've had both of my knees replaced. So I thought I would take on the longest zip-line in Europe and the fastest zip line in the world! A bit crazy - but that's me."

Hilary has been a member of The Wildlife Trust of South and West Wales for eight years; however, she has never done a sponsored challenge before.

A spokesperson said: "The Wildlife Trust of south and west Wales is honoured that Hilary has decided to take on such an adrenaline-packed challenge in order to help the charity with its aim to protect local wildlife, both now and for future generations to enjoy."

When asked what she would like the money that she raises to go towards within The Wildlife Trust, Hilary replied: "I support the whole work of the trust so I would like this to go towards general costs."

The spokesperson added: "Anything that you could spare to help Hilary fundraise for The Wildlife Trust would be greatly appreciated. She has managed to raise over 90 per cent of her £1,000 target so far, and just needs to raise the last few pounds before she takes to the skies this Friday. Visit Hilary's JustGiving page here: www.justgiving.com/fundraising/Hilary-Pascoe."

Investors confident in UK economy, says Vale MP

ASTON Martin's decision to invest in St Athan is an indication of confidence in the UK's future outside the European Union, says Alun Cairns.

The Welsh Secretary and Vale MP was responding in the Commons to a question from the Labour MP for Merthyr Tydfil and Rhymney, Gerald Jones.

Mr Jones told him Prime Minister Theresa May has said she is prepared to walk away from the Brexit negotiating table without a trade deal with the EU, and the Foreign Secretary has said that no deal would be no problem.

He added: "No deal could see tariffs of 30 per cent to 40 per cent on Welsh dairy farmers and meat producers, and 10 per cent tariffs on Welsh car manufacturers."

"Is it not the case that this Tory Government are prepared to play fast and loose with the Welsh economy, with an extreme Tory vision of Brexit that would put Welsh jobs and livelihoods at risk?"

Mr Cairns said he did not recognise the basis of Mr Jones' question.

He told him: "We want the freest, most open trading agreement, and it seems to me that the real investors, who are creating real jobs, are taking us towards our ambition."

"We have seen major investment by Nissan in Sunderland, a major investment by Toyota in Derbyshire and major investment in my constituency by Aston Martin."

"That demonstrates their confidence in our vision as we leave the European Union."

Out & About with The GEM

CLASSIC MOTOR SHOW IN BRECON

BRECON Motor Club will host and organise the fourth Brecon Classic Motor Show on Sunday, August 6, at a new location in Libanus, Powys, seven miles south-west of Brecon.

The new location, 'Paddy's Field,' is directly off the A470 and will be well sign-posted.

Providing stunning views toward Pen-y-Fan, the highest mountain in the UK south of Snowdon, the site will provide more parking and enable the organisers to provide even more attractions to enhance the visitor experience.

Each year the event grows in stature and last year, it became clear to the organisers that it had outgrown the National Park Visitor Centre.

The inaugural event in 2014 saw around 100 vehicles on display. Last year, well over 300 classics were exhibited including sports cars, American classics, rally cars and vintage tractors. The friendly atmosphere of the show encourages visitors to mingle with the owners of the vehicles and to improve their knowledge of motoring history.

Judging for the 'Best Car in Show' and 'Best Bike in Show' awards takes place throughout the day. After its success last year, a 'Visitors Choice' prize will be awarded before the close of the event.

Brecon Classic Motor Show will again raise money for Wales Air Ambulance in 2017. This emergency service charity has saved many lives in the Principality since its inauguration on St David's Day in 2001.

Entries are invited from the owners of veterans, vintage, classic, sports and prestige cars and motorcycles. Historic commercial vehicles, tractors and farm implements are also welcome.

Entry forms for participants are available to download from the Brecon Motor Club website: www.breconmotorclub.co.uk, call the organisers on 07711 885388.

Marvel do it again as Guardians of the Galaxy Vol 2 is a sublime triumph

WHILE most Marvel films seem to be something akin to shooting fish in a barrel in terms of their critical and commercial success, it seems crazy to think that back in 2014, Guardians of the Galaxy was regarded by many as potentially being Marvel's first big failure, telling, as it did, the story of a band of rogues in deepest space, numbering among them a talking tree and a violent racoon.

However, $773 million and a raft of praise later, Guardians of the Galaxy Vol. 2 arrives not with trepidation but with anticipation, about how it will match up to its illustrious forerunner.

With James Gunn at the helm yet again, here we meet the Guardians mere months after the end of the first film.

Still together, the group (consisting of Chris Pratt's Peter Quill, Zoe Saldana's Gamora, Dave Bautista's Drax, Groot (voiced by Vin Diesel) and Rocket (voiced by Bradley Cooper) are making their way across the galaxy as bounty hunters.

Yet when they anger

Ayesha (Elizabeth Debicki), the ruler of a planet, they find themselves seeking solace in many places – including discovering Peter's mysterious birth father Ego, The Living Planet (Kurt Russell)...

It's safe to say that having done their best to educate cinema goers about who the Guardians of the Galaxy were, in three years Marvel have created an unprecedented level of excitement for what were a marginal concern in relation to the perceived big guns of the comic book genre.

So... Vol. 2 is a film that not only needs to satisfy the fan base who so love the first outing, but also deliver something fresh, thrilling and satisfying in terms of a sequel.

Unsurprisingly, Volume 2 is a film that is more than a match for its progenitor, one that manages to up the scale and spectacle yet also instil depth of character and emotion which serves all the main players across the board – in short, it's one of the best Marvel outings to date – easily.

Much of the credit for this goes to James Gunn, a man who was known as a director of mainly idiosyncratic fare prior to the first Guardians... film, but who here shows the bravura confidence and assuredness of a man who will be playing in the mainstream sand pit for as long as he wants' Tackling sequels, and their maxim of 'Bigger! Better! Darker', is a tricky enough task even without the pressure of following something so beloved, but Gunn (who also wrote the script) manages to do it with seeming ease.

Yes the maxim is followed, but while the bigger and (arguably) better element is served, darker is replaced with emotional intimacy, which works exceptionally well.

If the first film set up the dysfunctional family of the Guardians, here we see what happens in the aftermath of them sticking together, the bickering and moods of the characters ringing true and sketched with skill and detail.

Yet there is a strong sense of the notion of family (and not in a ham-fisted Fast & Furious way), both literal and figurative that grants the film a wonderful depth and no little emotion – in fact, it's surprising how many times this film will give you 'something in your eye'.

Not a single character feels wasted or lacking thanks to Gunn's script, and the performances are deft enough to match – Chris Pratt takes Quill's cool rock star to more mature and emotional levels through his burgeoning relationship with his father Ego (the always effortless Kurt Russell).

Zoe Saldana has her own family issues with the returning Nebula (played by Karen Gillan), Dave Bautista deadpans excellently as Drax while even the likes of Groot and Rocket are given depth.

Visually Gunn shows an ambition to increase the scope of the film and there are some superb set-pieces – the opening sequence, set to ELO's 'Mr Blue Sky' that manages to be both kinetic and hilarious, and a battle between Gamora and Nebula that riffs on North By Northwest – of all films – show how more confident the director is this time around.

The only criticism to be levied at the film is that while it is exceptionally funny, there are a few occasions where Gunn plays a little too glibly at moments of high drama; while the laughs come quickly and often, there are times when you need the more dramatic elements need to be conveyed straight-faced, and Gunn often undercuts these moments when perhaps he should let them breathe.

That said, you'll be hard-pressed not to leave Guardians of the Galaxy Vol. 2 with either a) a big goofy grin, or b) slightly reddened eyes. If you're really lucky you may end up with both, as this is a film that manages to deliver excitement and emotion with ease.

VERDICT - Another

triumph for Marvel, Guardians of the Galaxy Vol. 2 is an absolutely wondrous film that will make you laugh, cry and everything in between.

James Gunn has done it again, creating a piece of work that has scale and emotion, and works tremendously well, with excellent performances across the board. There will be fewer films that will be as incredibly fun to watch as this one. Essential viewing.

COWBRIDGE GETS ITS OWN WALKABOUT WEDNESDAY!

COWBRIDGE will be firmly on the map when the Vale of Glamorgan Walking Festival gets going later this month.

"The town is having its own special launch, meeting outside the Town Hall on Wednesday, May 24 at 9.15am, followed by a two-mile stroll around the historic town," said Valeways Festival chairman, Marion Eynon.

"We're hoping walkers of all abilities will come and join us!"

The town's Walkabout Wednesday will also include an eight-mile stretch on the theme 'Castle, Court and Wells'; an introduction to the famous Millennium Trail; and, in the evening, a highly enjoyable ramble in search of Vale ale.

The festival of 28 free, guided walks showcases the whole Vale over six days, May 23 – 28, covering town, coast and country.

For full programme and terms, watch The GEM or go to www.valeofglamorganwalkingfestival.org.uk.

Fit for life: Cardiff care home opens specialist gym for its residents

A PRIVATE nursing home in Cardiff has opened a new specialist on-site gym for residents – the only care home in the city to offer this facility.

Tŷ Llandaff care home in Conway Road, Pontcanna has added the gym to its already comprehensive array of facilities and services to encourage residents to exercise.

The care home, which offers nursing, residential and respite care, opened in December and has the ability to accommodate people for nursing or residential care from the age of 18.

The aim of the new gym is to help support the physical and emotional health of the care home's residents, which can enhance their overall quality of life.

Tŷ Llandaff's activities staff will work with residents who are interested in this type of activity with bespoke health and fitness programmes.

Tŷ Llandaff is an 'all-inclusive' care home and the specialist gym is free to use for all residents.

The gym has a range of state-of-the-art equipment including a Kinesis all-body workout machine, a bicycle and a selection of equipment for core training. The equipment can be adapted to suit individual user for simple circuit training workouts to tailored programmes.

The Kinesis machine allows 360-degree movement, which improves balance and stability. Unlike traditional weighted cable equipment, this machine provides free movement and studies have shown this can result in a significant increase in overall body strength in just six weeks.

Tŷ Llandaff care home manager Janice Evans said: "We are delighted that our new gym can provide our residents with a way to maintain the active lifestyle that they are accustomed to in a pleasant and safe environment."

"We have included specialist equipment which specifically supports weight bearing training and is safe and easy to use.

"Research has shown that exercise is a good example of preventative care which can help residents become better equipped to fight disease and improve mobility."

"Exercise is known to be a mood enhancer and can also relieve stress and help you sleep better. We look forward to demonstrating the equipment to the residents."

For more information, call Janice on 02920 600100, email info@tyllandaffcare.com or visit www.tyllandaffcare.com.

Calling all superheroes to support young patients!

THE Noah's Ark Charity is calling on primary schools in the area to become superheroes for young patients at Wales' only children's hospital this summer term.

The charity wants primary schools to sign up to its first ever Big Schools Superhero Challenge – a fun sporting event where children run, walk or wheel either one or two kilometres dressed as their favourite superhero in return for sponsorship.

The idea for a superhero-themed fundraising event has been inspired by children treated at the Noah's Ark Children's Hospital for Wales.

Noah's Ark Charity community engagement manager, Kath Fisher, said: "Young patients at the hospital are often called superheroes by the people who care for them. Whether they've been injured as a result of an accident, are receiving treatment and therapy for a long term condition or recovering from an operation or sudden illness, we see their courage and determination every day."

"By taking part in this event, schools really will get the opportunity to become heroes themselves – to children who need the support of the hospital in their own community."

By registering online, schools will get instant access to a download containing a full resource pack including sponsorship forms, letter templates and a 'make your own costume' guide.

Ms Fisher added:

"We designed the challenge to be fully inclusive so children can run, walk or wheel a distance that's suitable to them."

"There's also no need to spend money on expensive costumes because we'll provide you with an easy guide to designing and making an outfit of your very own. What matters to us is that everyone that wants to take part, can take part."

To register a nursery or primary school for the Big Schools Superhero Challenge visit www.noahsarkcharity.org/schoolsuperherochallenge.

Celebrating our pets...

DURING National Pet Month, which encourages responsible ownership and support for animal charities, The GEM has been celebrating our wonderful companions.

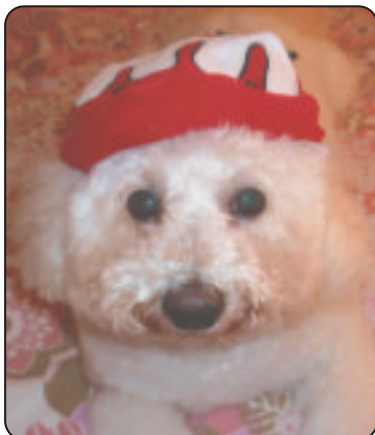

Wendy Bryan's 12-year-old cat Misty is a registered pet therapy visitor who likes to sleep in unusual places when she is not visiting nursing homes and hospitals.

Rescue dog Bonzo, in his happy home now for two years.

This is Anne's Jack Russell Toby, resting after playing with his ball on Frampton fields.

Happy little Bichon Frise Frankie " ... is a real treasure," says Violet.

Nikki's Chihuahua Jake (aged five) who likes to get the highest point in the garden for the sun!

Here is Keri's dog, Tilly.

Snooze time for Skampy, Jasper and Frisky, rescue cats of Janet and Dean.

18-month-old poodle-cross Bonney-Ann, who lives with the Field family.

Flybe expands choice from Cardiff Airport

FLYBE has announced the first phase of its 2017/18 winter programme from Cardiff Airport, featuring 14 routes offering a choice of up to 68 flights a week and including a choice of ski and winter sun routes.

Seats are available for booking now and are on sale for travel between October 29 and February 28. One way fares are from £24.99 including taxes and airport charges.

The new schedule includes an increase in the number of flights to Jersey due to customer demand following an uplift in visitors from the Channel Islands to Wales.

The schedule features:

- 14 routes including new weekly service to Rome, carried over from the summer and operating for the first time in winter.

- Flights to Glasgow increase to six a week,

- Two ski routes available from December to Chambery and Geneva.

- Daily flights to Paris Charles de Gaulle and multiple dailies to Edinburgh and Dublin,

- Twice weekly flights to Faro.

- Flights to Berlin Tegel (Tues/Thurs/Sun) and Milan (Mon/Wed/Fri)

Vincent Hodder, Flybe's Chief Revenue Officer, commented: "We're pleased to be able to offer these 14 key routes from Cardiff as part of the first phase of our 2017/18 Winter programme."

Spencer Birns, Commercial Director at Cardiff Airport, added: "It's very positive to see Flybe responding to our customers, who are asking for more choice, frequency and convenience with great prices offered on all of the routes."

"Flights are proving to be really popular and this helps to give Flybe the confidence to continue adding more choice from Cardiff."

Full details of Flybe's 2017/18 winter schedule is available at www.flybe.com.

'FREE FOOD FROM TESCO' for community groups and charities

TESCO and FareShare are calling on charities and community groups in and around the Vale to register for a scheme for surplus food to become meals for people in need.

The food is free and includes fresh produce, such as fruit, vegetables and bakery products. Chilled products like meat, cheese and ready meals are also offered.

Tesco's Community Food Connection programme with FareShare FoodCloud recruits and supports charities and community groups, linking them to Tesco stores via an app that allows store teams to alert them to surplus unsold food items available at the end of each day.

Tesco is now set to extend Community Food Connection to its convenience stores across the Vale. Groups that benefit include homeless shelters, substance abuse rehabilitation services, after-school clubs, foodbanks and domestic violence refuges.

The scheme forms part of Tesco's commitment to help reduce food waste across the food chain, and through the Community Food Connection, they have set a target that no food that is safe to eat will go to waste from their UK retail operations by the end of 2017.

Rhodri Evans, Tesco's Wales local communications manager, said: "We're proud to already support local charities and community groups through Community Food Connection from our larger stores.

"We are looking forward to forging strong links with local charities and community groups in the Vale and supporting their efforts."

Since launching in February 2016, more than half a million meals have now been donated to good causes in Wales thanks to Tesco's Community Food Connection scheme.

If you are a charity or community group that could benefit from the support of Community Food Connection, visit www.fareshare.org.uk/ or www.fareshare-foodcloud.to to register.

Expert's advice could avoid dispute

writes: It is estimated that 60 per cent of the UK population do not have a Will.

A Will takes effect on your death and is an instruction as to what is to happen to your estate.

Probate disputes and challenges to Wills are becoming a growth area, which often leads to substantial costs.

We now live in a world where family relationships are often very complex, and expert advice regarding the drafting of a Will is essential.

A professional advisor can also advise you in relation to inheritance tax, and how you plan to minimise potential liabilities to inheritance tax.

It is important that people are fully aware of their duties and financial responsibilities when they make a Will, to ensure that they comply with the technicalities that are required to have a valid Will.

The cost of a professionally-drafted Will, after taking advice, is considerably less than the costs that can be incurred if there is a dispute regarding your financial affairs after your death.

Substantial costs can also be saved by taking professional advice early, and putting in place Powers of Attorney – whereby you appoint trusted people to make decisions about your property and financial affairs and health and welfare, if your loss capacity.

The people appointed are made fully aware of their rights and responsibilities.

Wagging Tails provide one-to-one boarding

MY name is Rhian, I love dogs and I operate the CF postcode area of Wagging Tails, ably assisted by my Labradoodle Daisy.

Wagging Tails is a home-away-from-home dog boarding service designed as an alternative to kennels.

We recognise that leaving your dog with a stranger whilst you're away can be daunting, so we provide one-to-one dog boarding with experienced and fully licensed carers, who are as passionate about your pet as you are.

A Wagging Tails experience is essentially a holiday for both you and your dog.

We provide regular updates and photos while you're away and make sure that however long your dog is with us, they feel like part of the family.

So, if you're going away and looking for the best care for your dog or you're interested in becoming a carer yourself, please feel free to contact me.

Summer has arrived at Samantha B

IT'S official – summer is here, as I have seen more than one swallow, and we all know the saying, 'one swallow does not a summer make'!

It's time to think about changing your winter wardrobe for your summer. If you're thinking you need a couple of tops to enhance an existing outfit or something more special, we have it all at Samantha B.

We have just received our latest Bianca delivery; beautiful colours – cool aqua, teamed with gorgeous soft mocha feminine combinations. If you're looking for something a little different, Bianca never fails – always feminine with a little twist.

We have also had our first delivery of cool linen; trousers, jackets and blouses in lovely neutral colours that will fit seamlessly into your wardrobe.

In a world of endless change, it's always great to welcome back old favourites – sophisticated navy with classic neutrals; add a modern twist with a denim jacket – you can't go wrong with wardrobe classics. Fashion comes and goes, but style is forever.

We have had a really busy start to the season and have sold out of many styles already. Regular customers will know that we have a monthly delivery of Bianca and Olsen, so there's always something new to see.

If you would like to attend any of the forthcoming fashion charity shows on May 5 at Llanccarfan; May 18 with Cowbridge Choir at Holy Cross Church or May 19 at the town twinning, Bridgend, call into the shop for details.

SPRING INTO SUMMER...

MAY is a great gardening month and probably the last month you can plan for your summer colour in the garden.

For those with limited space, bedding plants will give you maximum effect and can really make a statement. If you are taking a long-term view then a garden full of reliable flowering shrubs is also an option.

For a bit of inspiration and because it's one of the best garden shows in the world, you could always visit Chelsea Flower Show (May 23-27). At Chelsea, you can see garden designs and planting ideas for all budgets and all spaces – from the minimalist and ultra modern to country cottage and rural retreat.

Whatever garden you have, watering and weeding are the key watchwords for May.

Top watering tips include – every time you plant something water it in well, make a moat of soil round newly planted plants so that water doesn't run off and it goes to the roots. Water pots and containers so that water appears right to the top of the pot and get a water butt.

If you have a drainpipe, you have a natural water supply so a simple garden solution for May is ensure that you have adequate water storage. A simple project for this month would be to buy and fit a water butt that will provide you with water for the garden in an environmentally friendly way and on a regular basis.

Annual weeds will be popping up now, so weeding borders once a week to prevent weed seedlings establishing is a good idea. The problem with the most common weeds such as nettles, dandelions and bindweed is that they are very, very tough.

They can continue to grow in conditions that make most garden plants simply fade away – and they do it, in part, by using the moisture, nutrients and light of the plants around them.

The best thing you can do with weeds is to make them into compost to benefit the plants that you really want to live with.

A great plant to get you into the summer gardening spirit is the pretty Petunia – perfect for containers and hanging baskets and a great choice for instant colour. It can flower all summer long, providing you deadhead regularly, and comes in a variety of colours to suit any garden palette.

Petunias are also available in different blooms including single, double, ruffled or smooth petals. They can be striped, veined or solid in colour and most sold today are hybrids developed for specific design purposes such as fragrance.

They need full sun and can't tolerate frost but can grow in a wide range of soils and thrive in multipurpose compost when planted in containers.

Keeping on top of garden maintenance is crucial in May. The garden is coming alive so there is plenty to keep you busy.

Here are some jobs you should be thinking about this month: plant out seedlings and young plants; watering and weeding; start spraying roses to stop black spot and mildew; fast growing hedges will need a trim; plant hanging baskets and containers; plant salad leaves seeds; tie up climbers; feed spring bulbs for next year; plant out tomatoes and mow the lawn.

BARRY TOWN UNITED SHOW OFF THE LEAGUE TROPHY ON A JOYOUS DAY

IT was celebration time at Jenner Park on Saturday, as Barry Town United's 13-year absence from the Welsh Premier League ended as they were crowned Division One champions. A crowd of nearly 1,000 fans saw the team beat Ton Pentre 6-0 before lifting the trophy, and PHIL CROCKER/FULL CONTACT PHOTO was on hand to capture the day's celebrations. In the coming weeks The GEM will be looking back at a historic season for the club – send us your memories of the season to sport@glamorgan-gem.co.uk or tweet them to @sport_gem.

The Dunraven Bowl comes to Cowbridge!

REPEAT Business, owned by Cowbridge's Jeffrey Bird and trained by his brother-in-law Jonathan Tudor at Merthyr Mawr, has won Wales' most prestigious hunter chase, the Dunraven Bowl Novices' Hunters' Steeplechase, which was held at Chepstow Racecourse last Friday.

The nine-year-old bay gelding, brilliantly ridden by regular rider Richard Patrick, was in a handy position throughout the two miles and seven furlongs of the race and came with a strong late run to beat Tinkers Hill Tommy, partnered by Peter Bryan, who, after taking up the running three fences from home, had looked like causing a big surprise.

However, at the winning post Repeat Business, who had been runner-up to My Coranna in 2016, had some five lengths to spare over Tinkers Hill Tommy, who is qualified with the Tivyside Hunt.

Kevin Salter's Spencer Moon, ridden by Cowbridge's Byron Moorcroft, was a further one-and-a-half lengths back in third place and Gwyne Phillips' Manhattan Mead, ridden by Ben Jones and trained by former Bridgend rider Paul Hamer, was fourth.

The Glamorgan horse Moreece was fifth under Will Biddick and Pyle's David Brace who sponsors the race saw his Doctor Braveheart (Bryony Frost) finish sixth and his Pink Eyed Pedro (Evan David) eighth behind Captain Camelot (Tom David) in seventh place.

The winning connections were presented with their trophy by the Countess of Dunraven who had travelled over from Ireland as a guest of Mr Brace OBE, and his wife Dawn of the Dunraven Stud at Pyle near Bridgend.

Winning owner Jeffrey Bird, a keen cricketer and president of Cowbridge Cricket Club is, with Malcolm Woolley, author of the book 1840 and All That: History and Reflections of Cowbridge Cricket Club and winning trainer Jonathan Tudor is a former amateur rider of note; between them they have had 30 winners, some 28 in point-to-points and two under Rules.

Their Minsgill Mans had finished in the place reserved for the runner-up on a previous occasion so their success on this occasion was well deserved and was a popular one for Welsh enthusiasts who had backed the horse, which started at 4-1 joint favourite.

Final games for chess club

THIS week was the final round of games for three of Barry Chess Club's teams.

The Quarks are the only team left with two games still to play.

The Bosons finished with a match against bogey team Pontypridd Barbarians. This match had been identified as the defining match for both teams. However, the Bosons retained their place in the top division when they won their previous game. The Barbarians defeated Barry 3-2. This was enough for us to secure fourth place and with the Nelson Rhinos losing heavily, the Barbarians stay up. Barry's points came from Ken Hannah who won his game and drew on the top two boards from Matthew Davies and Steve Cunliffe.

Steve finished the season losing only one match.

The Camelots in Division Two were already safe. Sam Jukes and Sam Whits both won their matches and with withdrawals on the other three boards, the Pentrych team were dispatched 3.5-1.5. Like the Bosons, the Camelots finished in fourth place. Both of the Barry teams had expected to be fighting relegation, so these were two excellent performances over the whole season.

In Division Four, the Gambits travelled to Rhondda. After a very promising start to the season when Barry were in the top three, it has all fizzled out. For the third match in a row, the club only managed a solitary half point.

In each of the games, Barry relied heavily on the Jones' boys to prevent the whitewash. There is still one game left to complete this division, so Barry currently stand in sixth place out of nine. The final result could push them down a further place. This represents a small improvement on last season when the club finished ninth out of the 10 teams in the division.

The Barry Chess Club meets at 7.30pm each Monday at the West End Club, St Nicholas Road, Barry CF62 6QY. New players are very welcome. The club is open to players of all standards; whether you are interested in playing competitive chess, or just the occasional friendly game.

Wartime service of local paddle steamers

A model of the Paddle Steamer Barry.

THIS month, 110 years ago, Barry's own paddle steamer commenced service for the town, her public and shortly after, King and country.

The paddle steamer Barry was built for and named after the town in 1907. Originally intended for excursion cruising to and from Bristol Channel ports, she gave pleasure to the public, day tripping in peacetime.

The paddle steamer Barry would become heroic in wartime and both World Wars as far as Gallipoli and later involved with D-Day.

The local Merchant Navy Association (MNA) branch has paid tribute over the years to Barry, her loss and that of her Royal Navy crew members. This year it is the 110th year since the commission of the vessel.

Since the underwater discovery of the vessel, which was lost in an enemy air attack, a few years ago, the wreck of the paddler has been declared a war grave. The vessel was sunk in 1941 during the Second World War.

A little ship of Dunkirk, she also served under the white ensign during World War One and was mentioned in dispatches. Between conflicts, she returned to her public duties and also covered for the laid-up paddle steamer Waverley.

The Barry was built for the Railway Company's fleet in their new venture to capture a share of the Bristol Channel excursion trade by John Brown at Clydebank, launched at 4.30pm on May, 4, 1907. She was christened by Miss Nesta Forrest, the daughter of Robert Forrest of St Fagans, a director of the Barry Railway Company. She bestowed on it the name of Barry.

She was a decidedly handsome and purposeful vessel, as befitted a product of a shipyard where she had taken shape alongside world-class Cunard ocean liners.

The Barry sailed on day trips from Barry pier to all the favourite places in the Bristol Channel, including Weston and Ilfracombe.

Many paddle steamers were commissioned into the Royal Navy from as early as September 1914, and minesweeping was to become the principal occupation of the shallow-draughted vessels such as paddle steamers.

Enemy mines were usually laid to hit lower hulls; a pleasure boat stood a fighting chance of being able to sail right over one unscathed. The same applied with submarine torpedoes. "They always went nicely under our bottom, thank you," said an officer of the Devonia after the war.

The Barry had the most interesting war of all of the paddlers. A very different role developed for the former Barry Railway steamer, it is recorded the Barry entered a period of charter to the War Office in December 1914.

She was initially to be used for war service transport and first took 400 prisoners-of-war to Dublin to be moved to a camp in Ireland. In later duties, she was used as a patrol vessel in the upper reaches of the Bristol Channel until May 22, 1915.

She was then requisitioned by the Admiralty on June 30 and commenced loading stores and large quantities of bunks without it being made clear where she was destined.

The Barry left Bristol on July 25, 1915 for the eastern Mediterranean to become a supply ship transporting stores and personnel for the ill-fated Gallipoli campaign. The voyage to Lemnos in the Aegean Sea took a little under two weeks and her first trip from her new base at Suvla Bay took place on August 9.

One of her key duties was the transport of the wounded back to the hospital ships at Lemnos for return to the UK.

The evacuation of the troops took place in December almost always under artillery fire. Slow and lightly armoured, she was completely unsuited to a combat role, but the fighting on the beaches was going so badly that every ship possible was required to get the troops back to Egypt.

Twice her paddles struck mines and she was almost lost, but against all the odds she was the last British ship to leave Suvla Bay, rescuing untold thousands of troops.

When the campaign was abandoned it was the Barry that was the last to leave, evacuating the men of the rearguard. She had entered the Great War under her own name of Barry and ended as Barryfield, one of her many name changes.

It was not until 1917 that her original Bristol crew were relieved and it was around this time that her name was changed to Barryfield as a Bainbridge-class destroyer named Barry had now joined the US fleet.

Barry saw out the rest of the war in the Mediterranean ferrying troops and supplies around.

After the Great War she was to return to her pleasure cruising as a civilian. In 1920, she was refitted by her builders when it was decided to revive the popular name of the paddle-steamer Waverley and this was bestowed upon the one-time Barry in 1925.

She was called to arms again for her country for World War Two.

Barry was sent as HMS Snaefell to the Tyne and sailed south with other Campbell steamers with their white funnels now painted navy grey in the 8th Flotilla, where she attended Dunkirk.

She was involved in the rescue of her grounded stablemate Glen Gower. HMS Snaefell served well at Dunkirk and was one of the last boats away with survivors, her precious cargo of 981 soldiers. The Dunkirk evacuation took place from May 27 to June 4, 1940.

During the Second World War, with approximately half the paddle vessels requisitioned for naval service and pressed into use as minesweepers or anti-aircraft vessels, many took part in 'Operation Dynamo' the evacuation of the British Expeditionary Force from the Harbour at Dunkirk and beaches running east from the town to the Belgian border.

The original Waverley had been mothballed in peacetime, but was called to duty again for World War Two. She also attended the evacuations at Dunkirk, but was bombed and sunk on the 41st anniversary of her own launch date.

PS Barry.

The Barry by then had been renamed HMS Snaefell but had been confused with the lost Waverley.

The PS Barry/HMS Snaefell survived Dunkirk and more but was finally sunk in an enemy aircraft bombing raid 13 months later off Sunderland on July 5, 1941. The paddler was on mine sweeping duties on the north coast at the time.

The wreck of the Snaefell, or, as we remember her more locally, the Barry, was found by divers eight miles off the north-east coast of England in 2010.

The leader of the dive team that found the PS Barry contacted the local Barry at War group to identify the wreck and recovered several items, one being the ship's helm with brass wheel still attached.

The helm was in fantastic condition and the pointer is still facing the direction the ship was in, trying to avoid bombs.

The local MNA branch assisted Barry at War with the help of many to gain the recovered items and return all to the paddle steamer's home town of Barry.

Time was of the essence to ensure these historical items were returned to the paddler's home town. The other option was scrap value as most is solid brass.

It was important to have the pieces safely returned, housed and displayed in time for an RBL Barry branch/Gallipoli Remembrance service and tribute.

The artifacts included two large solid brass windows, the brass helm with damaged wheel and a copper and glass lamp. The items were declared to the receiver of wreck back in 2010.

They are safely housed and displayed with a model of the vessel in the entrance to the Mayor's Parlour at King's Square, Barry.

Last summer, members of the MNA (Wales) Barry branch, and Terry Sylvester of the Paddle Steamer Preservation Society, ensured that both the loss of the Barry and her wartime crew were remembered and paid tribute 75 years later.

They also presented the captain of the current Waverley with a branch plaque and documents of PS Barry, which was once named and conducted duties for the then PS Waverley. 2017 is a special year for the current Waverley as she celebrates 70 years since her maiden voyage.

Garages believe that male motoring stereotypes should now be a thing of the past

THERE was a time when garages were rather set in their ways and, quite frankly, did not treat their female customers too well.

Tales of customers reporting the experience as difficult, and of feeling patronised, were common.

It's a problem that a number of local garages are now well aware of, and they are keen to take action that will overcome this issue - an issue that has built up over several decades.

There is a financial aspect too, of course, and a recent motor trade survey warned that independent garages faced missing out on millions of pounds in revenue because they employ too few female staff and are intimidating to women drivers, a new study reveals.

Research, conducted for the Institute of the Motor Industry (IMI), in 2016 found that 96 per cent of female drivers want to see more women mechanics in garages.

The survey showed that women were four times more likely than men to get someone else to take their car to the garage.

However, things are changing, not least because statistics show that there will soon be more women drivers than men.

"The number of women drivers in the UK continues to increase year on year (so) it's important businesses understand and develop their methods, behaviour and attitudes to reflect the changes in the consumer landscape," said IMI CEO Steve Nash.

He continued: "There is a massive knowledge gap between the professional and the customer (whether they are male or female) in this industry, so it's important businesses enforce changes such as diversifying their workforce, introducing transparency when describing faults and pricing to ensure all their customers feel as comfortable as possible."

It's a message that more and more garages have taken on board and, as cars get more and more complicated, the old stereotype that suggests that a man knows what is happening under the bonnet, whereas a woman doesn't, is no longer true.

Modern cars are equally baffling for both genders, which means that trust in your garage, based on past service or good feedback from friends, is more and more important.

It is inevitable that some women will view a trip to the garage with some trepidation, but local enlightened garage managers are now well aware of the issue, and the times are definitely changing.

Women are using their financial muscle and demand good service, and that good service is out there in a large number of local businesses.

Old stereotypes take a long time to pass, but there is no doubt that the motor trade has become much more self aware - and things are different now.

Emmaus welcomes chance to explain how it breaks the 'cycle of poverty'

LEFT: Emmaus South Wales staff met local politicians at Nant Lais, the community home for formerly homeless people, in Bridgend.

EMMAUS South Wales was delighted to welcome three local politicians to Nant Lais, the community home for formerly homeless people, in Bridgend.

Chris Elmore MP (Ogmore), Jane Hutt AM (Vale of Glamorgan) and Huw Irranca-Davies (AM) recently made the visit together.

Tom Clarke, CEO of Emmaus said: "Jane, Huw and Chris met a group of Companions (the name given to the local formerly homeless residents) living at the home, together with staff and trustees.

"Their interest in how the Emmaus Community in Bridgend works was very evident. With the future challenges posed by welfare reform, it was good for us in Emmaus South Wales to have the chance to explain to three senior politicians how Emmaus works so well for its Companions in breaking the cycle of poverty in a sustainable way.

"This is good news for both Emmaus South Wales and the local community."

NINE walkers from Penarth and District Ramblers under the leadership of Su G headed up to Penhow on Easter Saturday.

They set off beside the A48 before climbing by field and quiet roads to bluebell woodland at Castell-Prin.

Arriving at Wentwood gate, lovely, wide paths led them northwards through part of the vast Wentwood Forest, or Coed Gwent, and a visit to the ancient Curley Oak, somewhat damaged through age, but still alive.

A deforested area with rough sculptures made from cut logs brought them to a clearing with views back to Newport Docks before more pretty woodland paths afforded stunning views towards Sugar Loaf Mountain, Skirrid and Garway Hill.

Turning south upon reaching Cadira Beeches car park and enjoying views of Gray Hill and Wentwood reservoir, pretty tracks on the slopes of Mynydd Alltir-Fach, with misty views of the two Severn bridges, led to Woodside Cottage Farm.

During lunch in bright sunshine, walkers enjoyed the spectacular views across the river Severn and huge fields of yellow rapeseed stretching through the valley below, before descending through lush meadows and into woodland containing spring flowers, for their return by way of fields and farm tracks.

Robin and Pepper were not so lucky the next day when they and 14 companions headed out on a chilly morning along forestry paths and pretty woodland tracks to the lovely Hepste Valley overlooking Cefn

Cadlan, Cadair Fawr and the A4059.

After morning refreshments out of the breeze on a pretty path between stone walls, the open moorland beckoned with its tumpy grass, ponies, spring lambs and ruined drystone walls.

After visiting the derelict farm of Hepste-Fechan on the primrose-covered banks of a pretty stream they trekked across Mynydd y Garn, where the views were obscured by misty rainfall, which grew heavier.

Avoiding the many shakeholes and descending through spiky grass, a stone wall overshadowed by tree branches provided shelter during lunch before continuing their route to the Dringarth Valley, with its rain-soaked fields containing sheep and lambs and ruined farmsteads.

They crossed a footbridge and continued through fields towards Heolrhedyn Farm for a tricky, but successful, rescue of lost twin lambs, on a rough track to Pont y Llia below the tump of the ancient Castell Coch.

Following a road uphill and crossing a deforested area, the soaking wet, cold and bedraggled bunch returned to their start for a chance to warm up during the journey home.

JONES

Geoffrey Peter (Geoff)

Julie, Darren, Vincent, Angela, Simon, Sian and families would like to thank everyone for their love, kindness, support and sympathy for Geoff over the past 9 months when he so gallantly and courageously fought his illness.

Special thanks to Dr Goodfellow and her colleagues at West Quay Medical Centre for their tireless efforts and encouragement not only to Geoff but to the whole family and also Geoff's niece Helen who nursed him in his final weeks.

Thanks also to Geoff's aviation friends both here and all over the world who have made great tributes to him. Heartfelt thanks for all the cards, flowers and messages of sympathy and the generous donations to Cancer Research which totalled over £500.

'Fly high my darling'

Penarth Hockey Club's double bid is denied

AFTER a month-long break following the end of their various successful league campaigns, Penarth Hockey Club reconvened en masse at the Welsh Institute of Sport to cheer on the first XI as they looked to complete a 'double double' in the final of the Welsh Trophy.

Having won both league and cup last year, victory on Sunday morning would have capped another meteoric season for the Bears, but their opponents on the day, Cardiff University, also had it all to play for as they looked to complete a double of their own after being crowned champions of their respective GoCrea8 League division.

The students' side may have been the underdogs, but made the better start in a cagey opening quarter. As they maintained possession with the sort of assurance and confidence usually shown by Penarth, it was the Vale team who were being made to chase the ball but, for all their composure, the university failed to create any chances as the Bears remained resolute in defence and still looked dangerous on the counter.

The game sprung to life in the second quarter with both teams starting to threaten the opposing goal. Penarth went closest during a string of penalty corners, while David Joyce narrowly missed the target with a shot on his reverse.

It was only a matter of time before the breakthrough came, however, and it fell to Chris Baker to open the scoring after a display of fine individual skills.

Ben Croxall started the counter by sending a long aerial over the Cardiff back line, finding the onrushing Baker who controlled the ball, drew the keeper out wide before lifting the ball over the now-prone netminder and smashing home from a tight angle.

Despite falling behind, the university were still well and truly in the game and, having kept pressing forward, pegged Penarth back within minutes.

After a clumsy tackle in the 'D', the Bears found themselves down to 10 men for two minutes, and the students wasted no time in bringing themselves level on the scoreboards after a well-worked penalty corner left keeper Simon Comfort with no chance.

With their tails up after the rapid response, the university would quickly add a second, as a shot from a tight angle took an unfortunate ricochet and again left Comfort unable to prevent the score which, with just minutes to go to the interval, saw the students take a 2-1 lead into half-time.

The break gave Penarth the chance to settle and, from the restart, they started to control the game, maintaining possession and keeping their opponents pinned in their own half.

The students, however, were in resilient mood and defended heroically to keep the Bears at bay and deny any clear chances on goal.

Entering the final quarter, Penarth began to throw everything at the university side as they looked for a way back into the game, but became guilty of panicking and forcing the play, especially when their opponents had been briefly reduced to nine men following a series of cynical tackles.

While a more patient approach was required to draw the defenders out of a packed 'D', Penarth took one final throw of the dice by pulling keeper Adam Putt to press with 11 outfield players but were again thwarted in their efforts and eventually fell to a 2-1 defeat.

They say you learn more in defeat than victory, and Penarth clearly have some tough lessons to learn, having approached the biggest single game of their season in the wrong manner and left it too late to respond to falling behind, putting themselves under too much pressure at the end of the match.

With a first foray into Europe – and an expected step up in standards – just around the corner, the Bears need to learn those lessons and pick themselves up quickly, but have repeatedly shown an ability to come out fighting after defeat and will look to continue that trend in the Ukraine next month.

Veterans hockey

AFTER two false starts when games against Gwent had to be cancelled, Penarth's veterans side finally made their first appearances of the summer in a midweek encounter with old rivals Whitchurch and an intriguing match-up with the emerging Stanwell under-18s team.

Having fallen behind early in the first game, the Grizzlies showed battling spirit to turn the tables and take a 2-1 lead into the final quarter of the game courtesy of strikes from Tyrone Moore and Andy Strong, but Whitchurch ultimately proved too resilient for the home side and scored three late goals to run out 4-2 winners.

It was a slightly changed Penarth side that faced the youngest opposition they can expect to see all summer season, after accepting the challenge of taking on the Stanwell school team that is currently providing talent to both the local club and others in the area.

While the students were at a disadvantage in terms of experience, they more than made up for it in speed and agility and, using the teamwork on display in the South Wales Cup at Christ College Brecon, were more than a match for a well-rehearsed veterans side.

Stanwell dominated the first half, denying Penarth any real pressure on their goal while, in turn, imposing a high press on the veterans' 25 and creating a series of chances that the senior defence did well to repel. The persistent pressure eventually took its toll, however, and Penarth's resistance was finally broken by a slapshot from Connor Hamilton to the far post.

The students continued to create chances throughout the opening period, but proved unable to double their advantage, and this eventually told as the game progressed into its later stages.

The introduction of Moore added extra impetus to the veterans' play and it was the Welsh international who finally brought the teams level with a clinical finish, setting up a tense denouement as the school side tried to combine frantic defence, led by goalkeeper Luke Williams and fellow fourth XI regulars Morgan Salisbury and Rhys Meddins, while hitting Penarth on the break in search of the winner.

It was experience that told, however, with the cooler heads of the veteran side leading to a decisive strike from Marc Sawyer that served to separate the teams at the final whistle. While a draw may have been the fairest result on the day, Stanwell will have regular chances to redress the balance as the game looks set to become an annual event to commemorate both past school teams and the inauguration of the playing surface that has transformed the potential of both sides since 2015.

Attention returns to Penarth's youth sides this coming weekend as both the under-11 and under-13 teams return to Swansea in search of Welsh Cup success. The younger side recently clinched the south Wales title at the same venue, with their older counterparts qualifying for the national competition as regional runners-up.

Penarth Hockey Club always welcomes new, old and returning players, umpires, supporters, friends and helpers regardless of age and ability. When the regular season resumes, training will take place on Wednesdays at Stanwell School, with the juniors on the pitch between 6.15pm and 7.15pm and the seniors between 7pm and 8.15pm.

Anyone interested in joining the club at senior or youth level can contact club secretary Dave Stevens (d\_stevens81@hotmail.co.uk) for further information.

Reds lift cup at Jenner Park!

COWBRIDGE TOWN under-13 Reds took to the Jenner Park pitch in Barry last Sunday intent on rectifying the defeat they suffered in last year's cup final.

Having defeated the cup-holders in an epic semi-final earlier in the month, they took on Sully Scorpions in the final in positive mood, having defeated them twice in the league this season.

The Reds started positively and soon drew a save from the Sully goalkeeper after a long-range shot. The deadlock was broken after 10 minutes when Ifor Rees swept the ball home from a right wing cross after a corner had been half-cleared.

Much to the delight of a large and vocal Cowbridge crowd, Benji Mulcahy added a second goal five minutes later following a long and accurate kick from Reds goalkeeper Aron Kempson.

Sully then started to come back into the game and their physical approach led to a yellow card after a particularly ugly challenge.

However, their chances were limited as the Reds defence, ably marshalled by Rhys Hardman and Ben Cooke, held strong.

In fact, the Reds came closest to scoring next with a near post header from a corner by Finlay Ball only just glancing past the far post. The half-time whistle blew with the Reds leading 2-0.

Early in the second half Sully pulled a goal back after a break down the left wing and a near-post shot which put the game back in the balance.

However, the Reds stood up to Sully's physicality and the midfield, led by Harry Treharne, started to get the upper hand and exert control on the game.

Following a foul to the right of the Sully penalty area, the resultant free-kick by Akka Guwy could only be parried by the Sully goalkeeper into the path of Craig Tapsfield, who poked home from close range to make the score 3-1.

Minutes later Steffan Evans' powerful shot from the edge of the box gave the keeper little chance and further extended the lead.

With the Reds' defence dealing with any Sully attacks and the midfield starting to dominate, it was Cowbridge who were creating the better chances.

Following another Sully foul, the Reds were awarded a free-kick on the edge of the Sully penalty area in a central position.

Despite a sizeable wall the Sully goalkeeper was powerless to stop a blistering shot from Akka finding the bottom corner of the net.

The final few minutes were played out in relative comfort before the referee blew for full time, much to the delight of players and supporters alike, with the final score at 5-1.

Minutes later, Cowbridge Reds' captain Rhys Hardman stepped forward to collect the Butlin Trophy, which was originally presented by Sir William Butlin, from the referee who had an excellent game.

The victory was a real team effort with all 14 boys in the cup final squad contributing to the win along with other squad members who played in earlier rounds.

The boys may not be as big in stature or as physical as many of the teams they face but they stand up to their opponents and attempt to out-football them despite the increasing physicality of the game.

Last season the Reds became the first Cowbridge Town junior team to collect silverware after winning the under-12 league and this result meant they became the first junior team to win a cup.

The club has a number of strong teams in younger year groups and it is hoped that plenty more silverware will be heading to the club in future seasons.

Season finally underway at Wenvoe Castle Golf Club

THE new golfing season finally got underway at Wenvoe Castle Golf Club after exceptionally wet conditions throughout the winter months and well into the spring.

April has seen a gradual improvement in conditions and the greenstaff have to be complimented for minimizing the course closures during this difficult period.

Retiring club captain Paul Coombs handed over to the incoming captain Dr Dai Dayananda at the recent AGM and with little time to get his feet under the table the busy golf programme was in full swing.

The new captain's charity day in support of The Stroke Association of Cardiff will be held on Saturday, June 24 when it is hoped to raise significant funds for this worthy cause together with many other opportunities throughout the year.

April saw the first of many competitions where the winners will see their names in gold leaf on the honours board and the first to do so were Gordon and Sue Macpherson who lifted the Ashton Trophy in the mixed competition on Easter Monday.

This was followed by a week later by Geoff Pengilly winning the Coronation Cup with an impressive 4 up in the men's bogey competition.

Top score in the Welsh team handicap qualifier went to Mike Chick with a superb 45 points and he along with Justin Belle, Jeff Emes and Ron Gerrard will go represent the club in this prestigious tournament.

The ladies section was also very busy with Sheila Morrow playing well to take the honours in the Barbara Little Trophy, Samantha Case was delighted to win the Thomson Salver and Sue Dayananda came out on top to lift the Jan Duddridge Bowl.

It wouldn't be a typical May Bank Holiday unless the rain fell at some time during the traditional mixed competition which attracted a large entry.

This didn't dampen the spirits of the players taking part in the Vaughan Thompson Trophy and Paul Barratt and Maria Venn were absolutely thrilled to win their first honours board competition.

In presenting the prizes club captain Dr Dayananda congratulated the winning pair and took time to thank the green staff for the presentation of the course particularly following a very wet winter period.

The club welcomes new members and there are many benefits in taking out membership whether you are an experienced golfer or taking up the game for the first time.

Why not ring the club secretary, Nicola Sims on 02920594371 or visit the club website www.wenvoecastle golfclub.co.uk to find out more about taking out membership or simply playing the course.

Bully for David!

LAST Friday evening in the Cadoxton Cons saw the First Division singles take place and hot favourite David Davies come away with the victory after a cracking 3-2 win in the game of the evening against Seb Harris in the semi-final where both players hit a 180!

Dave then went on to beat Barry Taylor 4-2, Dave also hitting a 116 out shot in the final.

Congratulations to Dave and a big thanks for all that attended, especially Mike Copeland who ran the tournament.

Final Premier League results: Poachers 14, Throws of Despair 4; Billy Ghosts 12, Tynwydd Inn 6; Throws of Despair 6, Poachers 14 (Ray Way 107 out shot).

Congratulations to the Poachers who won the league and completed the treble.

This Friday is the Premier League singles - anyone registered in the Premier League is able to take part, lets hope for a fantastic turnout so make sure you register before 8pm.

A new generation of cricketers sought in the Vale

SEVEN cricket clubs from across the Vale are set to take part in a major grassroots initiative aiming to increase the numbers of those taking part in cricket.

Barry Athletic, Barry Wanderers, Cowbridge, Dinas Powys, Llantwit Major, Penarth, and Vale cricket clubs are all participating in the scheme that hopes to get 50,000 boys and girls excited by the game.

This comes in the wake of the England and Wales Cricket Board (ECB) launching its first nation-wide participation programme for cricket.

Starting this month, All Stars Cricket will introduce a new generation of families to cricket. The initiative will be delivered at local cricket clubs and centres across Wales and England throughout the summer, giving five to eight-year-olds their first experience of the game.

Parents can register their children for the scheme at www.allstarscricket.co.uk. After signing up, children will have a cricket 'back-pack' delivered to their door, with a bat, ball and everything they need to try the game for the first time.

They will then participate in an eight-week programme at their local centre, with the emphasis placed firmly on learning how to play the game in a fun, safe and inclusive environment.

Children will also learn the social development skills that team sport brings.

Each session has been developed with input from director of England Cricket, Andrew Strauss, and the England performance team, so children can be equipped with the basic skills they need to develop a lifelong love of cricket.

"We are bringing cricket to the front door of kids and parents across England and Wales. I can't wait to see the positive impact this will have on clubs and the wider game," said Strauss.

Michael Vaughan, former England captain and All Stars Cricket ambassador, added: "I started playing cricket at my local club, and have seen first-hand how important it is to introduce kids to our sport in a fun way."

"As a parent, I have also seen how tough it can be to get kids interested in sport, especially given the amount of activities competing for their time. Finding a way for cricket to appeal to kids and getting them active is more important than ever."

The contact details for the clubs involved in the scheme can be found at www.allstarscricket.co.uk.

Tredegar Farmers point-to-point this Sunday

THE Tredegar Farmers Hunt Point-To-Point Steeplechases at Lower Machen this Sunday has received 116 entries.

One man who will not be in attendance is the former MFH Howard Jones, who died earlier this year and who did so much to keep this meeting on the fixture list.

Racing gets under way at 2pm with the Subaru Restricted race for which there are 25 entries and these include Robin Des People, a 25-lengths winner of the Subaru Restricted at the recent Banwen fixture, Cardinal Tom, January Don, a winner at the Ystrad Taf Fechan and The Doc, which won the Open Maiden at the South Pembrokeshire.

There are 16 entries for the Confined over two miles and four furlongs and three that catch the eye are Pink Eyed Pedro, Captain Camelot and King Massini.

Of the 10 down to face the starter in the Men's Open over three miles and five furlongs, Sir Du Bearn, Desertmore View and Frelia are preferred in that order.

Patricktom Boru and Buck Mulligan, who fought out the finish of the Ladies Open at the Banwen with the former winning by a length, could meet again in the Ladies Open, or which there are 10 entries. Last year's winner Watch The Birdie, who disappointed in the recent Chepstow Dunraven Bowl Hunter Chase, will be hard to beat this time.

There are 17 in the Young Horse Maiden and Captain Kennit should prove too speedy for Tucks Bergin and Massini's Dream.

Of the 18 entered for the Open Maiden, The Boss On The Hill, Stella Massini and Books End look best.

Millwood Bowls Club round-up

WEDNESDAY evening saw Millwood make the short journey to the Island to play near neighbours Barry Athletic in a Munro Cup fixture.

Unfortunately we left our 'A game' at home on this visit and with the honourable exception of the rink skipped by Geoff Stone who had a well deserved victory by 21 shots to 16 shots over the rink skipped by G Whitlam, the cold and windy conditions got to the rest of the team who subsided to an overall defeat.

Saturday saw Millwood A host Barry Central in a South Vale fixture for the first time this season and the players enjoyed weather that would enable them to enjoy the afternoon.

The rinks skipped by H Spencer and Geoff S got off to flying starts and were not pegged back all afternoon. G Williams' tussle with the rink skipped by T White was close until the latter stages when Gary pulled away, and Brian Howcroft and Dave Goddard ensured a two on the final end would secure a draw for the home rink, Millwood taking victory by 83 shots to 46 shots.

A game played in a great competitive spirit, a credit to all players.

Under-14s lift boys cup!

ON Saturday, Barry Town United travelled to Penybont FC to play in the final of their South Wales FA under-14 Boys Cup against Carnetown BC.

The eight leagues that make up the SWFA each send two representatives to compete for this title and the Town were drawn away in every round and overcame difficult trips to Cardiff Allstars, Brackla (Bridgend) and in particular Goytre United (Port Talbot) in the semi-final where they managed to win 4-1 despite playing 65 minutes out of 70 with only 10 men!

In the final the Town were up against Carnetown BC who were not only unbeaten in their league but also had managed not to concede a goal on their route to the final.

Barry Town United under-14s lifted the South Wales FA Boys Cup

The game started very nervously as you would expect, but it was Carnetown who settled the quicker and began to impose their game onto the boys, with only a brilliant save from goalkeeper Ryley Allen, which stopped a certain goal, keeping the scores level.

After a nervy 10 minutes the boys started to grow in confidence and the tide started to turn. A lovely through ball from Kieran Eveleigh was latched onto by midfielder Cian Anderson who took the ball in his stride and thumped home a left footed strike to make it 1-

0. The Town were now taking the game to Carnetown and another fluent attack led to a corner which was only partially cleared to Josef Rosser, who returned it with a cross-cum-shot which floated in at the far post to increase the lead to 2-0 at half-time.

Barry Town started the second half where they left off in the first, on the front foot playing some lovely football.

Carnetown kept plugging away though and another excellent save from Allen kept the lead at 2-0.

However, the Town's pressure finally told and another of Eveleigh's dribbles meant he found himself in the box with only the keeper to beat, but unselfishly squared the ball for striker Niall Chinn to convert to make it 3-0.

After putting in another tireless shift up front, top scorer Callum

Hobbs finally got his reward when he found himself on the end of another through ball and finished through the keepers legs to make to game safe at 4-0.

Again Carnetown kept on battling and got their reward with a lovely cross and headed finish to make the final score 4-1 to Barry Town United.

The trophy was then presented by the SWFA committee and the boys got to celebrate in front of their parents and fans.

The coaches and players would like to thank Leanne Cosslett and Hannah Chesterfield for getting up early on a Saturday and making the pre-match food, and sponsor Mark Barrett of Rim Motors for supplying transport to and from the match.

Lastly thanks to everyone who made the effort to travel down to Penybont to support, it certainly helped. LY

Barry chess players take part in the Welsh Championship

THE Welsh Chess Championships have recently taken place.

This is a Swiss-style event played over four days with seven rounds of play. For the Barry Chess Club the usual suspects all took part - Nigel Ralphs and Lee Davis in the main event, Stephen Bonutto, Sam Jukes and Sam White entered the Major Section and Peter Watkins was our sole entry into the Minor Section.

There were in excess of 20 entries in each section so about 80 players were involved in total.

In the Main Event Nigel was ranked sixth and Lee 17th. Nigel had to take a bye in the first round but over the next six rounds he was unbeaten.

He managed just the one win to finish with four points. This placed him in the unusual position of finishing in sixth place which is where he was ranked.

Lee played all seven rounds earning two wins, three draws and two defeats. This gave him 3.5 points.

He may only have earned half a point less than Nigel but in such a close competitive competition he finished in 16th position, fractionally higher than his ranking. Both players lost a few ratings points however.

Sam Jukes was our top performer in the Major Section. He finished with three wins, two draws and two defeats to score four points.

His best result was a draw against Dominic Gibbs, rated at 2036. He was ranked 13th but finished in eighth place so it was a good performance.

Stephen Bonutto took three wins and a draw from his seven games. He was one of the lower ranked players in this section and finished in 15th place, which is well above his ranking of 25th.

Sam White was only able to play five games so his final position was perhaps out of sync. He did earn two points. All three players in this section returned home having lost some ratings points.

In the Minor Section Peter Watkins returned home with three points. He managed one win to finish in 15th place which was below his ranking of 10th. Like all of our other players he lost ratings points here.

Overall, it was a satisfying performance for our players with Lee Davis, Sam Jukes and Stephen Bonutto all finishing higher in the table than they were ranked but all six players ended the tournament with a lower rating than they started with!

Elsewhere the Bosons in Division One of the East Glamorgan Chess Association have retained their place in the division with a crushing victory by 4-1 away to the Cardiff Monarchs.

Matthew Davies, Sam Jukes and Dave Parsons all won their matches with Steve Cunliffe and Ken Hannah earning draws.

After spending most of the season looking over their shoulders with the relegation spots too close for comfort, they now find themselves looking to pick up only a half point from their final match to secure fourth place!

The Barry Chess Club meets at 7.30pm each Monday at the West End Club, St. Nicholas Road, Barry CF62 6QY.

The club is open to players of all standards; whether you are interested in playing competitive chess or just the occasional friendly games.

New players are very welcome to just turn up on the night but if you contact one of the club members through the website we can explain what is happening on the night you have in mind, and arrange for someone to greet you on your arrival.

LEAGUE SUCCESS FOR PG10 UNDER-12S!

PG10 under-12s.

PG10 are celebrating after achieving the unthinkable and winning the under-12 Junior Premier League in their first season in the competition.

The team will now play in the national competition against other league winners in the Champions Cup in May. Sebastian Thomas has also been named top goalscorer in the league.

This season has seen PG10 enter academy teams in the under-9 to under-14 section of the league and the benefits have been endless.

Next season we aim to have two sides in the under-9, under-10 and under-11 sections and also sides in all secondary school age groups.

The under-9s have been unbeaten all season with three players attracting interest from a number of Premier League clubs.

Under-12 player Taryan Surringer has moved to Spain to play for Spanish club Levante. The other age groups have adapted well and benefited from wonderful opportunities throughout the season, playing against some of the best teams and players across the UK.

The Junior Premier is committed to developing children and young people and bridging the gap between grassroots and academy football. It is the home of some of the best young footballers in the UK. It is also one of the fastest growing leagues in the UK.

Head of football, Peter Griffiths, said: "We are proud to be in the Junior Premier League, the league sets the highest standards and week in, week out you are playing against the best players and the best teams on the best facilities."

"The under-12s and all age groups have set high standards throughout the season. Our younger age groups are showing massive potential also."

We now travel to Spain to link in with Malaga FC and Real Madrid FC as well as enter in over 10 tournaments and festivals from under-6 to under-14 level with a number of professional clubs across the UK.

This season has seen PG10 players have quadruple the amount of games that a local league can offer and not one single match has been cancelled due to the weather as the facilities are of such high standards. PG10 players also access a development game programme also offering endless opportunities.

The players have taken part in a development programme testing each players' tactical, physical social and technical aspects of the game, helping each child develop but also educate them to train properly and to eat healthy.

Under-12 coach Drew Evans said: "The under-12s have done amazingly well to win the Junior Premier League - as a group everyone has developed and grown as players and a team. We now look forward to competing in the Junior Premier League Champions Cup."

As well as helping future talented players PG10 also offers all children the opportunity to get involved in football of all abilities and offers a popular games programme.

Mixed fortunes for Athletic bowlers

BARRY ATHLETIC Bowls Club PG2 squad had mixed fortunes in their Private Greens curtain raiser against Cardiff at Sophia Gardens last Saturday.

A tricky green meant the Athletic bowlers needed patience to find the best lines and pace. Yet the visitors enjoyed the challenge and earned four useful points but in the end the hosts came out on top with an overall 75-58 shot success.

Despite this early season defeat, two Athletic skips were involved in thrilling victories, preventing an opening day whitewash.

Skip Dave Snelling's rink, with good backup from Dave Townsend, Tony Bishop and Andrew Cooper, needed three shots to win on the final end. They were holding two and skip Dave clinched victory by drawing a third shot with his last wood to snatch an exciting win.

Praise too for Albert Mintern's rink of Paul Shepherd, John Holmes and Lol Paige. In a close encounter throughout, the score remained 15-15 on the penultimate end. The experienced Albert could sense victory and made sure his final wood counted to claim another nail-biting result.

Athletic A team captain Paul Webley, always an enthusiastic fighter to the end, had his work cut out as skip on this occasion. His young line-up, facing an experienced Cardiff four, suffered an 8-23 defeat.

Mike Vaughan's rink showed early promise and after 18 ends led 16-14, but three loose closing ends and a dash of bad luck resulted in a narrow 16-20 setback.

Nevertheless there were encouraging signs for Barry Athletic with selectors keen to give all new members a chance to show their potential and commitment at league and cup level.

Earlier on the week, Barry Athletic's midweek Munro Cup side started its campaign with a crushing victory against neighbours Millwood BC.

This season the Barry Athletic B.C. midweek side will field a representative development side each week, to support the development of new players with more experienced club players.

With many new members this season, competition for places in Barry Athletic's three competitive teams is as keen as ever, which bodes well in terms of developing greater strength in depth at the club.

The first match of season saw the Athletic building up an early lead over Millwood with Richard Bowen's rink racing to a 23-0 lead over Keith Williams after just seven ends and David Snelling's rink enjoying similar success, building up a 20 point lead after eight ends over A. Bumford.

Elsewhere the rinks of Peter Rogers and Geoff Whittaker were involved in a much closer contest in the early stages against the Millwood rinks of Williams and Stone.

However, Peter Rogers, with Roland Fletcher leading well at the front and well supported by Don Evans and Andy Cooper, put in a concerted effort over the second half of the game to return a winning 25-4 scorecard.

Richard Bowen's rink and David Snelling's rink continued to apply the pressure in the second half of the game, recording impressive victories of 32-6 and 30-9 respectively.

Millwood's G Stone gradually overcame the resistance of Geoff Whittaker's rink to return their only winning scorecard by 21 shots to 16.

An overall victory of 63 shots gave captain Gary Jones plenty of cause for optimism for the season ahead, although there will surely be sterner tests for the Athletic's midweek development side in the weeks to come where the rotation policy will ensure that all members are given equal opportunity to represent the club in the midweek fixtures.

Under-16s.

Double cup success for Barry Town United youngsters

IT was a weekend to remember for Barry Town United Ladies FC as both the under-14 and under-16 girls triumphed in their South Wales FA Cup finals held in Bridgend on April 29 and 30.

The under-14 girls took on league rivals Cardiff City Ladies at the Kymco Stadium in Bridgend in what was a typically tightly contested game.

Barry dominated possession in the first half without managing a breakthrough but two goals early in the second half from Ella Hilliard and Phoebe Curtis put the Vale-based club in command.

Barry comfortably saw out the rest of the second half to claim their first title of the season and the under-14s can secure a double this week if they can win a home league fixture with Gwent club Llanyrafon.

It has been a superb season for the team so far who have been consistent and also have a league cup final to play on May 14.

On Sunday, April 30, it was the under-16 girls turn to take to field and play out their cup final against Rhydyfelin. This was built up to be another tightly-contested game given both teams had recorded a victory each against each other earlier in the season.

However, Barry, boosted by claiming the league title earlier in the week, served up their best performance of the season and totally dominated this final from start to finish. It took just nine minutes for the Vale club to open their account when Holly Jenkins scored direct from a corner and then 10 minutes later a great run and cross down the right from Grace Corne found Sian Rees, who slotted home to double the lead.

Industrious midfielder Kate Spargo almost got a third with a brilliant solo run through midfield with a shot that came back off the crossbar but a minute before half-time Spargo made amends, slotting home from 12 yards to make it 3-0.

Barry were in complete control of the game and the second half followed a similar pattern. Goalkeeper Ruth Stanley was called into action, making a fine save from a free kick, but for most parts Barry controlled possession and carved open several more chances.

Substitute Aliyah Jama made it 4-0 with a cool finish and Barry scored two more in the final minutes through Spargo and Rees to make the final score 6-0 and secure a league and cup double.

The under-16s also now go into a league cup final on May 7 with the chance to make it a treble.

A fantastic season for the female section of Barry Town United, with potentially more silverware on offer.

Evan's Perth trip pays off

LANCARFAN'S Evan Williams' long trip to Perth in Scotland last week paid handsome dividends when his seven-year-old Gayebury landed the big race of the day – the EBF Stallions Gold Castle Novices' Hurdle, worth £11,390 to the winner.

Partnered by T J O'Brien, Gayebury, a 3-1 chance, won by three-and-three-quarter lengths from Robbin' Harbour, a winner of only previous two races.

Closer to home at Lingfield on the same day, Aberthin's Tim Vaughan took the Brian Hanrahan Handicap over six furlongs with his TermsNConditions who, under Keiron O'Neill, won by a neck from Noble Deed.

TermsNConditions was a 9-2 chance in a field of nine runners.

The Vale of Glamorgan Football League round-up

WITH the season reaching its conclusion, both Division One and Two titles go to the final weekend to be decided while the historic ASRS Cup was claimed in the final at Jenner Park.

Vale United added the ASRS Cup to their league title to achieve a league and cup double.

Vale were victorious 3-0 over Cowbridge Town with Jack Dummett, Ryan Jenkins and Jay Tominey getting the goals. Vale United will now look ahead to this Sunday's Barry Cup final at Jenner Park as they look to complete the treble.

In Division One Barry Belgrade completed their season having done all they can to pip Barry Athletic B to the league title as they defeated Dockers 5-1 to go one point ahead of Athletic B.

The pressure is on Athletic B as they play Cadoxton Barry this weekend knowing a win or even a draw would give them the league, but defeat would see Belgrade crowned champions.

Elsewhere in Division One Cogan and Pumas played out a 2-2 draw, Pumas still having an outside chance of promotion with a game left, while Cadoxton Barry dispatched Cadoxton Athletic 5-1 in the Cadoxton derby.

In Division Two, Cadoxton Imps all but wrapped up the league title as they won 6-2 against Island Marine B and Barry Saints slipped up with a 3-3 draw against Barry Albion.

The result sees Imps six points ahead with a game to go with Barry Saints having two games remaining.

Imps are in pole position with a goal difference advantage of 20 more than Barry Saints.

The Imps' result saw Penarth B's title slim hopes extinguished, but Penarth B won 6-4 against St Athan B.

Only one game in the Premier Division as the top league's season was completed with St Athan victorious over Penarth Town 5-3.

This week Division One and Two titles will be decided and Vale United play Rhoose in a heavyweight clash in the Barry Cup final at Jenner Park on Sunday.

Big winners at the Banwen point-to-point

COWBRIDGE'S Byron Moorcroft brought his season's tally of wins to 18 with a double at the Banwen Point-To-Point Club Point-To-Point Steeplechases at Llwyn Ddu Glais on Monday.

After a fall from Icey Steel in the opener, he landed the three horse mens open on Mike Bassett's and Keiron Price's 12-year-old old Really Unique who appeared to have the chasing odds-on favourite Tony Star - a faller at the last fence - well beaten and went on to win by a distance from the oddly named Hospital.

Byron's second win came in the the seventh and last race the open maiden event on Tommy Faulkner's seven-year-old bay gelding Robin's Wager, who drew clear of the hooded Fateh in the closing stages to win by four lengths.

Robin's Wager trained by Keiron Price ran in the colours of the late Gordon Lewis of Cowbridge as former rider Mr Faulkner, for reasons unknown, was absent.

Robin's Wager is by Robin des Champs, the same sire of Robin Des People which won the Subaru restricted race under Bradley Gibbs when coming home 25 lengths ahead of Moorcroft's mount Last Of The Buds.

Llanharan's Tom David had only one ride and this was on the favourite Minella Arts in the Intermediate race and the eight-year-old brown gelding, owned by Mrs Carmen Goldsworthy and trained by Carlie Packwood, won by one-and-a-half lengths from Dewi Lewis' Edgar Jones.

The unlucky horse of the race appeared to be BackOfTheRock, who, according to his rider Wayne Maskill, was going like a winner when he was squeezed for room at the third last fence when the winner jumped inside of him, causing him to jump the wing of the fence.

The injured Wayne, who had to miss his ride on Ivan The Engine in the last race, had earlier won the confined race on the 10-year-old French-bred grey gelding Qalinas who after jumping the last alongside stablemate Macarthur, ridden by Charlotte Evans, won by two lengths to give Wayne his fourth winner of the season.

In the ladies' open race Bridgend builder Roger Willcox's 10-year-old bay gelding Patricktom Boru, partnered by Jodie Hughes, jumped the last fence alongside Mrs Catherine Williams' Buck Mulligan, ridden by her daughter Isabel, and on the short run-in to the winning post Patricktom Boru held on by a length.

Patricktom Boru has now won seven point-to-points and has had three wins under rules and winning rider Jodie Hughes said: "I just love this horse - he is my favourite and he has given me my sixth winner of the season."

James Bowen chalked-up his 15th winner of the season when winning the Non-Rules Runners Maiden Conditions race on the Shinton family-owned Minella For All which made nearly all the running to score by four lengths from Vet Cert. Minella For All is trained by James Bowen's brother Mickey, who was saddling his 18th winner of the season.

Glamorgan Farmers tackle Parc Golf Club

THE monthly meeting of the Glamorgan Farmers' Golf Society was held recently when 31 members visited the Parc Golf Club for the first time, situated just off the A48 between Newport and Cardiff.

Established in 1988 this challenging 5,228-yard course with its narrow fairways and water features provided many talking points when gathering later at the 19th hole.

Members were particularly pleased to welcome back Chris Rooney, whose flourishing golfing career had been put on hold for 12 months due to problems with a shoulder.

Winning golfers Aubrey Bowen, Mark Rees, captain Ray Thomas, winner Brian Jones and Ed Philpin.

Sponsored by local NFU agents Kelly, Harris and Conlon the day's top prize was won by Llantwit Major entrepreneur Brian Jones who returned a winning score of 37 stableford points. Runner-up was nearby farmer Raymond Thomas with 35 points followed by John Caines, Mark Rees and Aubrey Bowen who all scored 33 points.

Ed Philpin won the visitors' prize, finishing just ahead of Andy Thomas.

Nearest the pin on the Watts & Morgan sponsored par-3 holes were Hugh Williams, Aubrey Bowen and John Caines with Dan Jarvis collecting the Bear Hotel, Cowbridge-sponsored prize when hitting the longest drive on the selected hole.

Clive Thomas, another farmer from the Llantwit Major area, returned home with the Premier Turf-sponsored bottle of whisky when correctly guessing 78 balls would fail to return home, although Clive's own contribution of reloading on nine occasions certainly helped! Clive Edwards, Mark Rees and Aubrey Bowen, who accumulated a very impressive 78 points won the NFU Mutual Insurance team competition.

The society's next meeting is scheduled for Thursday, May 25 at Llanishen Golf Club, a 'medal round' which usually coincides with a bout of sickness and number of suspicious withdrawals.

Mr Mark Rees and family, in memory of the late Mr Islwyn Rees, will sponsor this event.

Penarth Belle Vue Bowling Club results

BELLE Vue opened up their season with a friendly against Rhiwbina Bowling Club, going down 81-54. Three rinks lost and one won.

Rink one lost 21-15. Lead was Graham Duggan, Mike Owens at no 2 (his first game ever, he did alright – a good find for us).

No 3 was Colin Scammell and the skip was Barry Bagwell.

Rink two lost 39-10; lead was Dave Smith, no 2 was Paul Booth, no 3 was Richard Fitzjohn and the skip was Dave Miller.

Rink three lost 14-13, a close game. Lead was Dave Bradley (also his first full season with us); Richard Brant played no 2 and Alun Thomas was at no 3. Mr Reliable – Trevor Ford – was skip.

Our only winning rink was rink number four, winning 16-15: another close game.

Winning it on the last end lead were (myself) Frank Keen, no 2 our veteran Gordon Ford; no 3 our newest coach qualified this winter – Paul Paterson – and our skip club captain, Malcolm Thomas.

The game was played in a real friendly way; plenty of banter and laughs and a good game was had by one and all.

It was rounded off with a very good meal at the end of the game.

Thank you, Rhiwbina, for making it an enjoyable afternoon – in glorious weather!

Lord's Taverners' memorial golf day in Porthcawl

WALES' biggest sporting charity has announced it will once again return to the stunning Royal Porthcawl Golf Club for its annual Ian Spratling Memorial Golf Day.

This year's hugely anticipated event will take place on Thursday, October 5, and will see teams of varying handicaps from across south Wales compete for the charity trophy.

The event is held every year in memory of ex-chairman of the Lord's Taverners Wales Ian Spratling, who passed away in 2001, and raises thousands of pounds for disabled and disadvantaged children.

During the day, chairman Ed Meggitt will be presenting a local school with a specially adapted minibus that the Lord's Taverners Wales has funded.

The golf day will start with coffee and bacon rolls at 12pm before a 1pm shotgun start. After 18 holes, guests will be treated to a two course dinner followed by coffee.

A team of four is priced at £399, including 18 holes, bacon rolls upon arrival, dinner and coffee.

The Barry Town United under-16s lift league title!

THE under-16 Barry Town United FC girls were crowned league winners on Tuesday, April 25, following a battling 3-1 away win at Port Talbot Town.

Barry went into this fixture needing just a point from their remaining two matches to seal the league title and were up against a Port Talbot team that battled well throughout and made things difficult for the visitors, particularly during the opening half.

The visitors struggled initially to get their passing and combination play in motion but still went close on several occasions.

Emma Cannon shot just wide and Bethan O'Donnell blasted over the bar from a free kick. The home side almost took a shock lead when a pass put the striker through on goal, but a crisp driven shot was well saved by Barry goalkeeper Ruth Stanley.

Barry did take the lead on 17 minutes when a partially-cleared Holly Jenkins corner found poacher Sian Rees who smashed the ball home from 12 yards, just the goal that Barry needed to settle down.

But as they started to take a foothold in the game, Port Talbot grabbed an equaliser. Barry lost possession in midfield and the home striker went through on goal to touch the ball past Stanley to make it 1-1.

With half-time the perfect opportunity for Barry to reflect on an inconsistent first 35 minutes, the girls responded superbly in the second half and took control of the game, playing their more accustomed free flowing passages of play.

Emma Cannon won a penalty after being brought down and Rees stepped up to smash home the spot kick to put Barry back into a lead at 2-1.

With just six minutes remaining, Barry sealed the league title when Rees beat the offside trap to go through on goal to net a hat-trick and finish the game at 3-1.

The final whistle sealed the title for Barry who have won an incredible 17 out of 17 league games so far with one remaining fixture away to Rhydyfelin.

This has been a magnificent season of consistency and the players have come through some tough situations in several matches this year showing the strength of character within the squad.

Team manager Luke Williams commented: "To win the league having won every match so far is a great effort, especially when you consider half the team are actually under-15 players.

"The girls have shown great desire to develop and become more rounded players this year and they are a credit to the club and their parents. We now hope to kick on with two cup finals and see if we can achieve an unbeaten league season before some of the girls step up to senior ladies football next year.

"A special mention must also go to the coaching staff of Edryd Thomas and Julian Rowley who have played a massive role in the success of the team."

Squad: Ruth Stanley, Mae Atkins, Olivia Townsend, Bethan O'Donnell, Daisy Connolly, Amelia Davidson, Chloe Clarke, Holly Jenkins, Kate Spargo, Grace Corne, Sophie Hawkins, Jasmine Rowley, Sian Rees, Emma Cannon, Aliyah Jama, Lauren Harris.

Vale cup finals showcase local footballing talent

TIME TO CELEBRATE!

AS we approach the end of another football season, the Vale of Glamorgan Association Football League have started their end of season cup finals.

The first took place on Sunday, April 9 with the Division 2 Cup final for the Dockers Cup between Barry Saints FC and Cadoxton Imps FC.

The match ended 5-2 to Barry Saints FC with a hat-trick from Arturs Zomerovskis and a brace for Josh Griffiths. Ryan Warden scored the brace of Cadoxton Imps goals.

Prior to the Division One Cup final between Barry Athletic FC and SP Billy FC, the Premier Division league was settled on Wednesday, April 19 thanks to Vale United's 4-2 away win at Cowbridge Town FC.

On Saturday, April 22 Vale United traveled to AFC Rhosne - who were confirmed as league runners-up - for the home team's last league match of the season.

The unbeaten Vale United were stunned by two goals from Dave Bevan and Josh Bryan in each half to be handed their first defeat of the season; however, they still left Ceri Road with the Premier League Shield with two league games to go and two cup finals.

Sunday, April 23 was the Supporters Cup Final for the Division 1 teams. Barry Athletic FC took on SP Billy on a glorious spring afternoon.

Barry Athletic were first to strike in a back and forth contest with a penalty awarded after 25 minutes. Spencer Price had no problems converting to give Barry Athletic a 1-0 lead which lasted until half-time.

Within 10 minutes of the second half, Barry Athletic were 2-0 up thanks to a headed goal by Dan Morgan.

SP Billy didn't back down at all and still kept pressing, but were outdone on the counter-attack, as Ben Graham made it 3-0 with 15 minutes to go.

SP Billy still kept fighting and struck the post twice. A third attempt at a goal in the last five minutes saw Lee Carter's long range shot dip under the bar for a consolation strike - the final score Barry Athletic 3, SP Billy 1.

Megan's a star!

MEGAN Ridsdale, aged 10, a member of the Llangeinor & Pentyrch Pony club, is a star!

She entered her first pony race at the Ascot Pony Club meeting on her pony Ryeהל at Broadway and won in fine style, coming from behind to catch the two front runners, winning by a length.

Then in the same week at Cheltenham the pair made it a double with another excellent win.

Megan lives in Laleston and has been a member of the Pony Club for some years.

Cardiff and Vale College Rugby team hosts opponents from Pennsylvania!

CARDIFF and Vale College's Rugby Academy has played host to a prestigious rugby team from America.

The Conestoga High School Rugby Club is the oldest high school affiliated rugby programme in the USA, having been committed to introducing and developing the sport in the Trdyffrin/Easttown school district in Pennsylvania since 1971.

The current team's visit to CAVC's Rugby Academy formed part of a short pre-Easter Welsh tour.

While visiting Cardiff and Vale College's rugby academy, director of rugby Martyn Fowler treated the team to a surprise tour of the Principality Stadium.

They then visited the Welsh National Sports Centre for a training session.

The following day the Conestoga team had a special stretching session in the college's specialist gym at its City Centre Campus with strength and conditioning coach Rich Walters.

Later that day the Conestoga and Rugby Academy teams clashed on the hallowed ground of Cardiff Arms Park.

After a gruelling match, the CAVC Rugby Academy - which recently came fourth out of 750 teams in the world's biggest schools tournament, the Rosslyn Park Sevens - won 107-7.

Martyn Fowler said: "Despite the score a resolute Conestoga refused to give in, or indeed have the time reduced. They displayed huge character despite the scoreboard.

"It was a great opportunity to offer our learners broader playing experience outside of the Welsh Colleges League programme. The day went well, culminating in gift giving and dinner in our very own 'The Classroom' restaurant.

"As a result of networking we have shared a few ideas and are looking forward to planning a two-day tour to New York and Washington in a year's time, where we will meet up and possibly play again."

Conestoga High School's head coach Keith Mclean said: "It was an absolute honour and a privilege to get to play at Cardiff Arms Park. It is something our boys will remember forever.

"Sometimes you have to go through days like this against a high level of competition in order to know where you are, and to improve.

"We start our season the week we go back and this will stand us in good stead."

Pencoed RFC round off season with an emphatic victory

David Young.

PENCOED RFC finished their season's campaign in fine style with this convincing 36-12 victory over Cwmgors to cement a seventh place finish in Division 2 West Central.

The home side were soon on the scoreboard, wing threequarter David Young broke strongly into the visitors' 22 and the supporting Aaron Halse crashed over. Rhys Clark added the extras.

Pencoed again returned to the Cwmgors 22 following incisive running from loose head prop forward James Tredray and a good take at the ensuing lineout from Dan Watkins set up a well-controlled driving maul for Rhys Pilliner to apply the finish.

Pencoed were playing with confidence and soon increased their lead, flanker Jack Thompson straightening onto a flat pass from Clark to split the midfield defence before standing up the final defender to swerve over for the try, and Pencoed went in 17-0 up at the interval.

The home side then secured the bonus point try early in the half. Young was held up just short before several phases and quick ruck ball saw half backs Tom Daniel and Clark move the ball swiftly into midfield, where Tredray split the Cwmgors defence with a superb angled run to score at the posts, which Clark converted.

The visitors then enjoyed their best period of the match to bring themselves back into contention, countering on two occasions for Adam Williams to show his pace with two fine individual efforts, Dan Morgans added a conversion to bring the scoreline to 24-12.

Rhys Russell.

Any thoughts of home complacency were soon dispelled however, Pencoed moved the ball from deep before full back Ryan Russell sped through midfield from some 60 metres before swerving around the full back for a superb individual try; Clark landed a fine conversion from wide out.

Fittingly, the final try for Pencoed went to David Young, soon to embark on a New Zealand adventure where no doubt his rugby education will progress.

In this confident, high-tempo, all-round display from Pencoed, with both backs and forwards playing their part, hooker Rhys Pilliner was chosen man of the match.

Congratulations go to Pencoed under-16 squad members Sam Costelow and Tom Sly on gaining their Welsh under-16 caps at outside half and tight head prop respectively against England.

Pencoed Phoenix under-18 talent Kayleigh Powell skipped the West Wales side to victory over East Wales at the Cardiff Arms Park.

Congratulations to all the aforementioned and everyone concerned on behalf of Pencoed Rugby Football Club.

Porthcawl Bridge Club latest results

PORTHCAWL Bridge Club has recently held its AGM at which officers for the forthcoming year were re-elected.

Congratulations to Pat Haworth, who has been elected as the club president. Pat has been a club member for over 45 years, many of which have been spent actively on the committee, and has also represented the Welsh ladies at international level on two occasions.

She relinquishes her role as vice-chairman, with Dil Evans being appointed to this position. There was unanimous support for Janet Richards continuing as chairman for her excellent job in leading the club.

The club also held its annual pivot teams for the Mollie Hart trophy, in which each player in the team has to partner at least two of the other members. This was won by Jan, Tiffany, John, and Tony.

Other results from the club are:
Saturday, April 15 - First - Wendy Williams & Tony Haworth; Second - Pat Haworth & Terry Dolan.

Thursday, April 20 - First - Rob Charlesworth & John Beard; Second - Peter & Sandie Jenkins. Saturday, April 23 - First - Tony Haworth & John Beard; Second - Dil & Marian Evans. Thursday, April 27, Mollie Hart Trophy - First - Janet Richards, Tiffany Beard, John Beard, Tony Haworth; Second - Marian Evans, Dil Evans, Terry Dolan, Roger Plant.

The club meets twice a week - Saturday and Thursday at the Awel-y-Mor centre 7pm-10.15pm, visitors welcome at any time.

To contact the club, call our secretary, Trish, on 01656 785794.

Champions Tondue end season in rampant fashion

CHAMPIONS Tondue got off to the best possible start to their final game of the season when Aled Jones touched down after a solid scrum gave the backs the platform to break the Cwmgors defence.

Another solid set piece allowed full back Aled Jones to grab the first of a hat-trick midway through the first half before flanker David Griggs added a third two minutes later. Josh Tatchell kicked the conversion to make it 22-0 to the visitors.

A break by centre Sam Grabham in his own 22 then saw a wonderful length-of-the-field move with Aled Jones on the end of it for his second try.

Jordan Roderick grabbed what was already a consolation try for the home side on the stroke of half-time.

The second half started slowly until two sensational tries from flanker David Griggs, both solo efforts, one of which started on the halfway line and secured his hat-trick, Tatchell converting the latter.

Cerith Dennard then got one back for the home side with Stef Rees adding the conversion, before another move that started in their own 22 saw Aled Jones secure his hat-trick.

Tondue closed their account with a debut try for replacement centre Stuart Young following another length of the field move from a back division on fire.

Stef Rees managed a last-minute try for Cwmgors, which he converted, but the day belonged to Tondue with the backs taking most of the plaudits on a day made for running rugby, the final score 46-19.

MIKE SULLY

Try time for Stuart Young on his debut.
